The government went ahead today hopeful of success in ending its biggest postwar labor dispute, spreading soft coal strikes affecting some 177,000 workers from more than 675 mines.

Settlement of the 19-day-old coal shutdown in six states would shave the nation's strike lines materially. Current disputes across the country kept about 425,000 men and women away from their jobs, a decrease of more than 125,000 over last week's new 1945 record of 550,000.

Indiana Miners Out

The shutdown of additional coal mines — some 5,000 miners left their pits in Indiana yesterday — forced the closing of additional steel mills and resulted in mass layoffs of workers, in Pittsburgh the U. S. Steel company cut its operations to 51 per cent of capacity and said by the week-end a total of 18 of its blast furnaces and 58 open hearths would be closed in the Pittsburgh area.

The shutdowns, stemming from strikes by a union of foremen and supervisory employes in a dispute over collective bargaining,

Prospects of Coal Strike Settlement Brighter Today

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct 9—Government prospects for solving the nation's soft coal strikes appeared brighter today in contrast to efforts to win a postwar wage yardstick for all industry.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach told newsmen "enough progress" had been made in two days between Mine Union Chief John L. Lewis and bituminous operators to warrant a further attempt to settle their differences.

The session was called for 10 a.m. (EST) with the cabinet officer apparently optimistic that the strike of the 675 mines now idle would not be necessary.

Some 162,000 miners have been out in an effort to force the operators to recognize foremen's union members. These supervisory employes heretofore have been classified as part of management.

Schwellenbach appeared to be having success in his attempt to set a pattern for wage increases with price adjustments. His plan is something similar to the "little steel" formula with a guidepost limited basic wage increases to 15 per cent above January, 1941, levels.

The government now holds that only on wage increases would require higher prices on finished products. Schwellenbach's idea is that a test case processed through the war labor board could give all industry a picture of government intent in the price-wage policy.

The difficulty, however, is that many will go out of business if forced to wind up its affairs by Dec. 15, and Chairman Fred W. Taylor is figuring on the next Monday.

Gen. Wainwright's Story — Japan Strikes

Early Morning Phone Call Tells of Sneak Attack

(This is the third article in General Wainwright's own official and dramatic story of the fall of the Philippines, where the 62-year-old Hero of Bataan and Corregidor won the world's acclaim for his stand and its sympathy for his eventual captivity. Today's article deals with the tragic unpreparedness of Wainwright's North Luzon forces on the eve of the Jap strike.)

INSTALLMENT NO. 3

I WENT DOWN to MacArthur's headquarters a few days later to compliment him and ask instructions. He told me to continue training my Philippine division in combat tactics and added that I would eventually be placed in charge of three new divisions in South Luzon. Grunert was to be given command of the North Luzon force.

One day in September I was staging a field exercise for my Philippine division when MacArthur drove up in his air-conditioned Chrysler and called me over to the car.

"General Grunert is going to be returned to the States," he said.

"Yes?"

"And that will make you the senior field commander," he went on.

I nodded. Then he told me I could have my choice of forces.

I thought a moment. "Which do you consider the most important point in the Philippines to defend?" I asked. "Where do you think the main danger is...the place where some distinction can be gained?"

"The North Luzon force, by all means," he answered.

"I'd like that," I said.

"It's yours, Jonathan," MacArthur agreed. "But for the time being I want you to stay with your division and complete the plans for your December maneuvers. In the meantime I'll keep General King up at Fort Stotsenburg to organize things for you."

BY NOVEMBER 25 my staff and I completed arrangements for the December maneuvers. The problems had been worked out and the grounds inspected. But those maneuvers, like so many other things, were doomed.

On the morning of Nov. 25, two weeks before Pearl Harbor, MacArthur called me at my Fort McKinley office.

"Jonathan, you'd better get up North and take command of that North Luzon force now," he said. "Forget the maneuvers. How soon can you go?"

"I can go just as quickly as I can walk downstairs and get in my car," I told him.

"Oh, that much rush isn't necessary," he said. "Wait a day or two, and then come down to Manila to see me before you go."

I closed my official affairs at McKinley that day, had my servant, Felemon San Pedro, pack my household goods and personal gear and my aide, Tom Dooley, sent the stuff up to Fort Stotsenburg. Sgt. Carroll took up my three horses. Then I went down to Manila and found MacArthur considerably less eager and tense than I was.

He wanted to talk mainly about the organization and training of Philippine army units, in which work I had been helping since the Philippine army had begun mobilization. I got over my old point again, about the continuation of training in offensive combat and the need of doing it as fast as possible.

"JONATHAN," he said, "you'll probably have until about April to train those troops." I knew MacArthur was talking about war.

Looking back on that prediction, and remembering hind-sightedly that the Japs were even at that hour massing to hit us, I'd like to stress this thought: MacArthur believed that nothing was going to happen before April of 1942. He believed it because he had no official information which would have led him to believe otherwise. He was, I'm sure, completely in the dark about the gravity of diplomatic messages then being exchanged. If MacArthur had known anything, he would have given me—certain to be hit first—what he knew. His April, 1942, prediction was a fair one, I thought.

I drove to Fort McKinley for the night and on the morning of November 28 went on up to Stotsenburg, which lies 65 miles above Manila.

I thought a lot about MacArthur's April guess. But I knew that even if the Japs held off that long it would still be a tight squeeze. It takes time to turn a mass of conscripts into the kind of army we would need. The minimum time in our Army for training a division is one year, and that presupposes good training conditions and all the necessary gear and able instructors.

On my arrival at Fort Stotsenburg that afternoon to take over my duties, I discovered that General King had been able only to scratch the surface of organizing things for me. The headquarters of the North Luzon force was just about nil. All I had to start with were King's post adjutant, to serve as adjutant general of the new field force, a supply man and a surgeon.

I DIPPED into my old Philippine division and brought out Col William P. Maher as my chief of staff, got the old division quartermaster, Lt. Col. Alfred Balsam, the commanding officer of the Fourteenth Engineers, Lt. Col. Harry Skerry, and the division's signal officer, Lt. Col. Josh Stansell.

And went to work. Col. Maher reported promptly and was of inestimable value in the organization of such

COURT CONDEMNS LAVAL TO DEATH

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Oct 9 — Pierre Laval was condemned to death tonight for intelligence with the enemy and attacking the security of France.

The former Vichy chief of government, who before the war was three times premier of France, had boycotted the trial after the opening days and had been confined to a dungeon beneath the Palace of Justice.

A jury of 12 members of parliament and 12 from the resistance movement took little time to seal the doom of the man accused of treason. The same court during the summer condemned former Marshal Petain, Laval's superior in the Vichy regime, but Gen. De Gaulle commuted the sentence to life imprisonment.

Andre Mornet, grey bearded prosecutor of former Marshal Petain and the first World war spy Mata Hari, asked death for Laval and declared frankly that the strange hearing was a political trial.

100 "PRACTICE" ON FIRE ALARM BOX

Tests Show Many Unfamiliar with City's Equipment.

Approximately 100 Marionites learned yesterday noon the proper way to turn in a fire alarm from the two types of boxes which are used in Marion.

At the noon demonstration held at the southwest corner of Main and Center streets, John Ganoe, mechanic at Central station supervising the demonstration, reported that many adults who thought they had turned in an alarm from the old style box had in reality only taken the initial step when they turned the key. Mr. Ganoe said that turning the key and stopping then would be like unlocking a house door then turning around and leaving.

The demonstration will continue through the week as a part of Fire Prevention Week activities. Inspection of most of the manufacturing district was held Monday and stores and offices in the business section are being inspected for fire hazards today.

Mrs. Vance To Be Paroled Nov. 16

Mrs. Gladys Vance of Marion, serving a manslaughter sentence in Marysville reformatory in connection with the gas explosion death of her husband, Terley Vance, former Marion teacher, is scheduled for parole on Nov. 16, The Associated Press reported from Columbus today. She is one of eight reformatory inmates just granted releases by the pardon and parole commission. Eighty-five inmates of the Mansfield reformatory also were paroled.

125 Attend Kickoff Dinner Starting Countywide Fund Campaign.

By EDNA S. DUTTON

Some 250 men and women left desks, household tasks, professional offices, machine shops and other business and industrial posts today and started ringing doorbells, pushing buttons on private offices and talking above the din of whirring machinery to raise $90,000, the budget set to finance Marion county's share in the 1945 United War Chest campaign and the work of the agencies comprising the Marion Community Foundation Inc.

The drive officially got under way last night when some 125 men and women, representing chairmen, committees, majors, captains and teams organized for the drive, met at the First Evangelical and Reformed church to hear a talk by Mrs. Vera Katz of the USO overseas department, and learn the final details for carrying on the campaign.

E. L. Cleveland, president of the Community Foundation, presided and in a brief talk expressed his confidence in the workers and the outcome of the campaign. He reminded the men and women that while the actual fighting has ceased, we now have to work together to maintain what we have gained. He called attention to the fact that such a campaign is conducted in a democratic way, and men and women when solicited, have the privilege to say 'yes or no.' All of us, he said, want to be good Samaritans, helping those who need help. That "who", he added, is your neighbor, although he may be a thousand miles away.

Instructions To Workers

William Luse, campaign manager, talked briefly on the plans for carrying on the campaign and urged the workers to see their subscribers as early as possible and to call on the campaign headquarters located in the Community Foundation office, for any help or additional supplies.

Mrs. Katz, who is on holiday from her duties as an USO worker, came to Marion from her home at Kirksville, Mo. and will soon leave for New York to return to her work overseas. Since returning home after three years' overseas, she has spoken before many groups on her work and what the USO means to the men away from home. She served in Trinidad, British Guiana and Brazil. Birthday parties for G. I. Joe helping him select presents for the folks at home, providing entertainment in the way of dances, and shows, recreational rooms, showers, sleeping quarters and numerous other home comforts and services, are only a few of the things the USO makes possible for our fighting men in all countries, she said. A highlight of the past year was the July 4th celebration which was as nearly like home as it could possibly be made, Mrs. Katz told her audience. The men cooperate by sharing their time, talents and gifts from home, she stated, and she gave her listeners a bright picture of Christmas when she told how the men brought gifts received from home to share with children in the hospitals. U. S. Troops Stand Guard Over Jap Cache of Precious Metals

Impounded $250,000,000 Treasure Represents Bank Reserves of Japan and Other Countries.

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Oct. 9 — American soldiers stood guard today over uncovered Japanese gold, silver and platinum reserves of more than $250,000,000, and allied headquarters said the imperial Army and Navy, which had held part of the treasure, hadn't accounted for a penny since 1937.

"Responsible" Japanese officials led the way to the treasure, General MacArthur's headquarters related, on this first day in office of Premier Kijuro Shidehara's already-reshuffled new government. The aged but energetic premier told correspondents he was "not prepared to discuss whether Japan was guilty of starting the war, and issued an eight-point program pledging personal freedom and a fight against famine.

New Navy Minister Adm. Soyemu Toyoda's portfolio was lifted even before he could be sworn in, and Adm. Mitsumasa Yonai—who once dared oppose warlord Hideki Tojo—replaced him in the new cabinet. Toyoda, said Japanese sources, might be considered a war-criminal suspect.

The impounding treasurer included reserves in the Bank of Japan belonging to the Bank of Thailand (Siam), Bank of Indo-China, Federal Reserve Bank of China, Bank of Italy and Bank of Chosen (Korea). All impounded metals and coin will be held until Allied headquarters receives instructions from Allied governments on its disposal.

The seizure was to make sure the reserves did not disappear, and at the some time to obtain Army and Navy records which might show the disposition of loot from conquered territories, Allied headquarters reported.

Japan's new premier told a press conference attended by some 40 correspondents that he thought "there were several regrettable points" in Japan's share

Work Started by Congress on Atom Rule

Lawmakers Get Down to Business on Ways To Control Discovery.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 — Under the eye of history, the atomic congress went to work in earnest today on problems of the atomic era.

Here's the one-two-three of it:

1. The house military committee met to hear Army leaders testify on a bill to set up a nine-man commission to ease peacetime atomic development at home. The Army leaders wrote the bill.

2. The senate again took up its quarrel over choosing a committee to consider the same bill. The senate military committee wants to consider it. Other senators have protested saying peacetime atomic progress is not primarily a military affair.

3. More distinguished scientists visited congress to testify on a proposal to create a national research agency. Scientists and senators are disturbed lest America slow down its test-tube tinkering now that the war is over.

The house and senate today held their first business sessions in five days.

Atom Grows Bigger

Atomic power continues to grow bigger every day as a concern of congressmen. Foreign relations are definitely in the congressional picture, too.

Secretary of State Byrnes appears to have the unofficial support of the senate foreign relations committee in the troublesome treaty-making period just ahead.

He talked with the committee a long time yesterday. Exactly what he said was not disclosed, but members left no doubt today they approve his conduct at the stalemated London foreign ministers conference.

Secretary of War Patterson was scheduled to testify for the bill to create an atomic energy commission. So was Maj. Gen. Leslie Groves, who supervised the making of the atom bomba.

President Truman has asked congress to set up the atomic commission. If the bill is passed, the President will appoint the nine commissioners, subject to the senate's approval.

Scientist To Testify

One of the scientists due to testify on forming a peacetime research agency is Dr. Vannevar Bush. His words carry special weight because he headed the nation's wartime research office. The testimony is before a joint meeting of senate military and commerce subcommittees.

27,000 TONS OF RAILS PURCHASED BY ERIE

Special to The Star

CLEVELAND, Oct. 9 — Nearly 27,000 tons of new, first quality rail, the equivalent of more than 146 miles of track, have been ordered by the Erie railroad. The new rail will be used throughout the entire system in continuation of the line's regular rail replacement program. The orders, totaling $1,244,000 have been placed with three steel companies.

The contracts call for rail which has been control cooled and end hardened. Of the total order, 11,828 tons are 131-pound rail and 17,087 tons are 112-pound rail. The total expenditure includes the plates, angle bars, spikes, and other accessories.

Delivery of the rail is expected to start early next spring when the normal track laying program begins and such work will continue until the cold weather sets in.

Additional Groups Indorse Jobs-Progress

Interest in the proposed Jobs and Progress plan for Marion, backed up by indorsements of the plan, continues to grow as clubs, civic groups and other organizations open their fall and winter activities.

Among the latest groups reporting whole-hearted approval of the plan as outlined by the Civic Planning Group are the Marion County Association of Insurance Agents, Inter Club Council, representing the service groups of the city, Marion Pan-Hellenic association Round Table, Club Co-Ed and Marion Sorosis clubs. The Pan-Hellenic organization contributed $5 to the campaign fund.

The plan will be submitted to the voters at the election on Nov. 6.

TRUMAN TAKES POSITIVE STAND ON DISCOVERY

President Declares No Ally Has Asked for Engineering "Know-How" of Weapon.

By The Associated Press

TIPTONVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 9—The world had notice today from the lips of President Truman himself that the secret of the atomic bomb will not be shared with other nations.

The President set the record straight at an unprecedented press conference in the heart of the bear-hunting and fishing preserve in which he also:

1. Made it clear neither Russia nor any other ally had asked for the engineering know-how that led to the perfection of the bomb.

2. Designated James F. Byrnes, secretary of state, to initiate discussions with Great Britain and Canada, partners in the fateful discovery, looking to the outlawing of its use.

3. Scoffed at reports the London meeting of the foreign ministers of United States, China, Russia, Great Britain and France was a failure.

4. Declared there never has been a clash of American and Russian interests and expressed the hope there never would be.

5. Expressed concern that Russia has been badly misrepresented in this country as we have been in Russia and attributed misunderstanding of differences in languages and difficulties in translation.

6. Expressed confidence that management and labor will adjust difficulties which have led to reconversion-retarding strikes—difficulties which he said in large measure to a natural let-down similar to those that have followed every war in history.

Unexpected News Conference

These momentous pronouncements came from a wholly unexpected news conference last night at Mrs. T. O. Morris' private lodge in Tiptonville, where reporters had been invited by the President for what was supposed to have been an off-the-record gabfest.

Mr. Truman began his press conference by saying, in response to a question, that he has no intention of sharing the engineering and industrial know-how, the only real secret of the bomb, with anybody.

He reemphasized this repeatedly under questioning, then pointed out no ally had asked for this knowledge.

Great Britain and Canada, he said, share the knowledge, and while he has not discussed his decision with them with reference to the secret, he felt sure they would agree with it.

He made it clear he felt Russia has been as badly misrepresented in this country as this country has been in Russia.

American and Russian intentions, he said, do not clash at all.

They never have, he said, and he stressed his hope they never would.

Others Lacked Resources

All nations, the President said, have access to the scientific knowledge that led to the development of the atomic bomb, but only the United States, with its resources in money, men and plant capacity, was in position to develop it.

Could Russia have the plant and other facilities? He was asked.

The reporter, the President commented, could answer the question as well as he.

The President said over and over he was not alarmed by the recovery-retarding labor strikes. Such situations, he said, have followed every war.

It will be adjusted, he promised, and he said the crisis was not so much related to a reduction in the workers take-home pay as it was to the let down. It would have happened if there had been no reduction, he contended.

The meeting of the council of foreign ministers, the President asserted, was no failure at all. Instead it had laid the groundwork for progress.

He knew of no move for another "Big Three" meeting, although he said he would not stand in the way of one since he thought the Berlin conference was a successful affair.

He plans to leave Tiptonville early tomorrow for Dyersburg, where he will board his presidential plane, the "Sacred Cow," for Gilbertsville, Ky. He will speak at the dedication of the big TVA dam there.

Series Goes Full Seven Games with Finale Coming Tomorrow

CHICAGO, Oct. 9—It is a photo finish as to whether the ball players or the fans were dizzier from the antics that threw this wierd world series between the Detroit Tigers and the Chicago Cubs into the full seven-game route, the question now is not which team will win the series tomorrow, but which team will boot it.

The way things have been going through this freakiest of all fall frolics—not omitting the about face by the official scorers on the decisive play in yesterday's game,—it appears that the club which finally finishes in front will do so only because it can't help itself. The other outfit won't let it lose.

They're going to need the finale of this richest of all series at 1:30 P. M. (EST) tomorrow all because of yesterday's "rhubarb" that the Tigers finally lost to the Cubs 8-7 in 12 innings of something that resembled baseball.

In yesterday's game there were such doings as 38 players parading about the premises; a baserunner falling flat on his face with home plate in sight; Dinky fly balls falling for hits while fly chasers bowed politely; enough throws to wrong bases to bring a suggestion for a radar set in the infield, and an assortment of pitching by nine elbowers.

Start of the Trouble

On the other side there was Hank Greenberg's homer in the eighth that topped off a four-run Detroit rally and tied the game. And Stan Hack's four hits, the last of which, with two away and a mate on first in the 12th broke up the ball game.

It was on the original ruling on Hack's hit in the 12th that official scorers reversed themselves. Dizzy Trout, five-hit winner of Saturday's game, was in there for the Detroits by that time—the fifth Bengal pitcher during the afternoon.

Frank Secory had touched him for a single and Billy Schuster was sent in to run. Hack, who'd knocked in two tallies during a four-run Cub rally in the fifth, hit the 2-1 pitch through short and on into left field.

Hank Greenberg came in to field it and Schuster slowed up coming into third. Then the ball took a crazy jump over Greenberg's shoulder and kept right on its merry way out to the left field wall. By the time Hank caught up with it, Schuster was home.

Hack was on second and the series was tied at three games apiece.

The scorers ruled it a single for Hack and an error for Hank. This started a stew among baseball writers and baseball men Five hours later the scorers announced they'd recounted the votes and ruled it a two-bagger for Stan, and no bobble for Greenberg.

Hack Loses Record

Hack, who's leading the series with a .440 batting mark, didn't know whether to cheer about the extra-baser he was handed, or moan about the switch. Because when the scorers gave him that double, it cut his number of singles for the day to three. This removed his name from the record books even before it was written in among the few players who've clouted the record four singles in one game.

As a result of his game-wrecker, the win went to the second hero Hank of this series — Borowy — who won the opener last Wednesday and was clubbed out in six rounds Sunday. Hank came on in the ninth, after Claude Passeau and a couple of other collapsing Cub curvers had taken the long walk, and pitched four scoreless innings for his second win of the set.

The Tigers are in a lot better spot for the "odd" game tomorrow than the National leaguers. Detroit has lefty Hal Newhouser, who's won one and dropped one so far in the series, ready to go, with lefty Stubby Overmire set to play fireman.

The Cubs had to use all four of their regular starters — Hank Wyse and Ray Prim in addition to Passeau and Borowy—to win yesterday's game. Although Borowy has asked for permission to go to the post, the chances are Manager Charlie might use someone like Paul Derringer or Paul Erickson or Hy Vandenberg to start the game. As a result, the lobby bookies are quoting 2 to 3, Detroit for the big pot.

Hack's four belts yesterday gave him a total of 11 for the series, within one of the all-time record.

Army Again Rates Top Spot Among Leading U. S. Teams

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—Impressive triumphs this season have convinced most of the 111 sports experts who took part in the Associated Press' first weekly poll of 1945 that the Cadets still rate as the No. 1 team of collegiate football.

The West Pointers were acclaimed as national champions last year after they had won all of their nine games and rolled up 504 points to their opponents' 35.

Eighty-six of the 111 writers cast their first place ballots for Earl Blaik's powerhouse.

Navy, was ranked second on 14 first place votes and 955 points.

The rest of the first ten (with first place votes and points in parentheses) were: Notre Dame (3-699), Ohio State (3-658), Minnesota (2-605), Southern California (1-435), Alabama (0-305), Indiana (0-216), Michigan (1-185), and Texas (0-167).

Cornell, unbeaten in three games, received one first place vote and finished in a tie for twenty-third with 16 points.

Two Buckeye Stars Are on Injured List After Hawk Game

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 9 — Halfback Paul Sarringhaus of Hamilton, O., and Russ Thomas, big tackle from Charleston, W. Va., were question marks today as the Ohio State Buckeyes practiced for Saturday's date here with the Badgers from Wisconsin.

They were the major casualties of last week's 42-0 triumph over Iowa and Buck Coach Carroll Widdoes said it would be a day or two before it could be ascertained whether the rampaging ball-toter and the bruising lineman would be able to go fulltime against Coach Harry Stuhldreher's gridders.

Thomas, who is nursing an ankle injury and Sarringhaus with a twisted knee took it easy in yesterday's drill.

Widdoes, who has seen motion pictures of the Iowa game, was not as happy about it as most Buck followers. Said Widdoes:

"We don't feel too proud for ourselves over what happened Saturday. We didn't do things consistently that we were supposed to do. There were missed assignments and loose ball handling."

The Buck coaches, assembled for the regular Monday confab with the pressbox crowd yesterday,, didn't appear too worried about Wisconsin — providing the Scarlet and Grey gets rolling. But Widdoes moaned:

"If we don't play better than we did Saturday we're in for a lot of trouble."

Ohio State scouts reported the biggest threat of the Wisconsin team was Jerry Thompson, a little, elusive halfback from Cameron, Wis. They had praise, too, for George Fuchs, the quarterback, who played with Miami part of last season before transferring to Great Lakes. He was a center then but Stuhldreher has moved him into the backfield to make room for a newcomer to the pivot post, six-foot-three, 195-pound Harold Faverty.

Few Unbeaten High School Grid Teams in Sight by Season's End

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 9—Given another week-end or two like the last one and Ohio's unbeaten and untied high school football teams probably can hold their 1945 convention in the hall closet.

The latest study of what goes on in the schoolboy gridiron ranks showed that no less than 11 major teams were knocked out of the unbeaten and untied ranks—nine by defeats and two by ties.

The casualty list reads something like this:

Beaten for the first time—Middletown, Cincinnati Xavier, Hamilton, Coshocton, Akron Central, Zanesville, Canton Lehman, Columbus Aquinas and Columbus Bexley.

Tied for the first time—Warren and Campbell Memorial.

Pending reports from some of the outlying precincts, it would appear now that there are at least 14 major teams, including one or two from Class B schools, which still have perfect records and the leaders in that group probably would include Cincinnati Withrow, Walnut Hills and Purcell, Dayton Chaminade, Cleveland Cathedral Latin, Cleveland West, Toledo Waite, Leetonia, Martins Ferry, Van Wert, Newark and Columbus Upper Arlington.

Latin Looks Good

Cathedral Latin in particular looked more and more as if it might be on the road to a record straight perfect season as it drubbed Cleveland Glenville, 47 to 12, for its third straight victory.

Dayton Chaminade gave up only one first down as it licked Dayton Kiser, 13 to 6; Cincinnati Purcell won its 12th in a row over two seasons with a 26 to 14 triumph over Cincinnati Hughes in which Don Brill scored three touchdowns; Toledo Waite got all of its points in the first half in its 27 to 6 victory over Toledo Devilbiss.

Newark scored on the opening kickoff and then went on the pile up a 30 to 6 count on Lancaster but the oddest incident of that game came in the fourth quarter when the Wildcats ran a play with only 10 men on the field and gained three yards. Wayne Queen, 230-pound sophomore was a bit slow in getting on to the playing field as a substitute and his mates just ran the play without him.

Ranking high in the upset department were the defeats administered to Middletown, Coshocton, Columbus Aquinas and Zanesville. Middletown missed both kicks after touchdown against Lima South and took a 14 to 12 beating, its first setback in two years.

Dover Beats Coshocton

Coshocton's first defeat was a 25 to 6 affair with Dover.

Aquinas, rated in much of the early season dope as the No. 1 team in Columbus, apparently stumbled over its own press clippings and was handed a 19 to 7 defeat by Columbus Linden McKinley. Zanesville and Alliance battled on even terms for more than three periods and then Ed Krahling of Alliance intercepted a pass and ran 42 yards for the game's only score.

Canton McKinley got back on the victory trail after being beaten by Warren the week previous but the Bulldogs face one of their toughest assignments Friday with a game against Canton Lincoln. Lincoln tied Massillon 10 days ago and Friday the Lions gave Canton Lehman its first defeat of the season, 6 to 0. That touchdown was the first to be scored against Lehman this season.

Massillon was held to a 7 to 7 tie by Steubenville in another of those games in which the statistics didn't mean a thing. The Tigers gained 349 yards to only 54 for Steubenville and had an 18 to two margin in first downs.

Third Straight Tie

The scoreless tie between Warren and Campbell Memorial was the third straight for those two schools and Campbell probably can blame a case of "fumbleitis" for the tie. Warren recovered seven Memorial fumbles.

And any one who might take exception to little Leetonia's place among the state leaders need only to take a look at the record. The team chalked up its fourth straight victory by drubbing class A Salem 27 to 0, piling up a 221 to 17 advantage in yards gained. Coached by ex-Coast Guardsman Charlie Mather, Leetonia now has won 12 straight games since being tied in its season opener in 1944.

Teams coached at Leetonia by Mather—he was at the school in 1941 and 1942 in addition to this year—haven't lost a game in 22 starts.

Eastern Ohio observers also continued to sing the praises of East Liverpool. The Potters, with a line averaging 185 pounds and 4 veteran ball carriers, licked New Philadelphia Friday, 38 to 0. The only blot on their record is a tie with Steubenville Central Catholic.

UPPER SANDUSKY IN GRID LEAGUE LEAD

UPPER SANDUSKY, Oct. 9—Two tied games in Northern Ohio League football play last week left the Upper Sandusky Rams in first place as they resumed practice sessions for the game with Bellevue here Friday night.

The ties, 0-0 for Galion and Shelby, and 12-12 for Norwalk and Bellevue left the Rams as the only undefeated and untied team in the race.

Coach Earl Shaffer said the practice sessions would not ease off in any degree because of the wins recorded over Richwood, Bucyrus, Ada and Crestline but would be in fact intensified because the teams still to be met, Bellevue, Tiffin Calvert, Galion, Shelby and Carey, will no doubt prove a greater test of the metal of the Ramsmen than the opponents previously met.

Despite the cautious comment of Coach Shafter and his assistant, Harold Tenwalde, the team has established an unusually good early season record and has tallied 112 points to 22 scored by the opponents, and this spread might been even greater except for the policy of giving younger squadsmen some experience when the game is in the bag.

Outstanding individual performances are comparatively few in the excellent overall team work of the Rams, but players give much credit to the "generaling" of Quarterback Bobby Wolfe and the consisently good play of Fullback Gene Rife.

REJECT GAME SHIFT

Y Touch Grid Season Opens

The Y. M. C. A. Touch Football league got off to a good start when first round games were played Saturday afternoon, and only one failed to produce a winner. Greenwood and Pearl played to a scoreless tie. The rest of the games were close with several of the teams scoring in the last few minutes to win.

Glenwood 9, St. Mary 6

Glenwood was leading 2-0 at the half as the result of a St. Mary man being trapped behind his goal line. In the third quarter Glenwood scored on a long pass from Thomas to Luke who ran the remaining 40 yards to score. St. Mary scored in the last quarter on a pass from Finnegan to Kilbury.

Glenwood	0	2	7	0	—9
St. Mary	0	0	0	6	—6

Officials: Daum, Schuler and Maloney.

Oakland 7, Silver 0

Oakland and Silver battled on even terms for the entire game with what appeared to be a scoreless tie. In the last minute of play Waits of Silver punted and Oakland's safety man Jim Edgington caught the ball and behind perfect interference ran the ball back 50 yards to score. Edgington scored the extra point on a sweep around left end.

Oakland	0	0	0	7	—7

Official: John Hachten.

North Main 6, Oak 0

The winner of this game was decided early in the first quarter when Clemons, North Main fullback ran 35 yards on a wide sweep around end to score. Both teams threatened several times, but pass interceptions halted the drives.

North Main	6	0	0	0	—6

Official: Larry Russel.

Mark 7, Olney 6

Both teams had fine passing attacks. Bob Apt scored for Mark in the second quarter on a long run, and added the extra point when Apt passed to Turner. Olney scored the same quarter on a long pass.

Mark	0	7	0	0	—7
Olney	0	6	0	0	—6

Officials: Drake and Baldauf.

Forest Lawn 6, Geo. Washington 0

Ballinger of Forest Lawn ran 25 yards in the closing minute on a end run to nose out their close rivals. Both teams were close to pay dirt in the first half, but could not push across a pointer.

Forest Lawn	0	0	0	6	—6
Geo. Washington	0	0	0	0	—0

Officials: Hoffman and Armbruster.

Greenwood 0, Pearl 0

Neither team threatened to score both being evenly matched. Penalties hurt scoring chances on both sides as a play for each side was called back that might have provided the winning points.

Officials: Peadon and Garey.

USES Makes Statewide Employment Survey

Cooperation of Marion area employers in the preparation and return of a special report on employment trends was urged today by Fred B. Scherff, manager of the United States Employment Service office here.

The forms—51,000 of them—were being mailed earlier in the week to all employers in Ohio asking for significant employment figures as well as projected employment trends through April 15, 1946. The data collected on a statewide basis will be made available to the Ohio Post-War Program commission for its use in determining the extent of post-war employment and to recommend steps wherever necessary to provide employment.

The completed reports are to be sent by employers to the Administrative Office of the USES-Bureau of Unemployment Compensation in Columbus, Mr. Scherff said.

TAXI CO. ASKS TO ADD CABS

Proposes Use of 14 Cars at City Council Meeting; Zone Hearing Set.

One of the lightest schedules of legislation to come before city council in many weeks was taken up at a meeting Monday night.

The Yellow Taxi Co asked permission to operate 14 cabs under its franchise, now calling for eight. The request was referred to the ordinance and franchise committee.

The street and alley committee reported a favorable recommendation on petitions of a group of Windsor street residents to have the city accept a strip off the west edge of their properties for use as a public alley. This was turned over to the city solicitor for preparation of legislation.

Hearing Set Nov. 12

A hearing was set for Nov. 12 on a petition of Carey Bush to have a Franconia avenue property transferred from the residential zone so he may use it for garage work. The planning commission has recommended that the request be refused.

A group of Patterson street residents renewed their application for construction of a sanitary sewer line.

Lease of the city hog farm for a period of three years was authorized. Bids for lease of the property will be taken after the lease has been advertised.

Zone Request Made

A request of Frank McDaniel for a zone transfer of a property near his Silver street store to enable him to use it for business purposes was referred to the planning commission.

The salary of technician at the City hospital was increased from $225 to $250 a month. Officials said it was absolutely necessary to increase the salary to induce a person competent for the position to take over the operation of the hospital's accredited laboratory.

Seek Street Light

Councilman D R. Biggert presented a petition for a street light on Foster Lane between Olney and Blaine avenues.

A petition was presented for a light in the rear of 191 East George street on a small court where a group of residences has been built.

LIONS HEAR TALK ON FIRE PREVENTION

Assistant State Marshal Tells of Cost of Carelessness.

In keeping with fire prevention week A. L. Fair of Columbus, first assistant to the state fire marshal, was the speaker for the Marion Lions club meeting at Hotel Harding Monday noon.

Mr Fair spoke on the fire marshal's department, giving facts concerning its work and fire statistics for the state. Established in 1900, Ohio's fire marshal's department was the second such state department created in this country, he said. Ohio has lower fire insurance rates than any other state, he declared.

Pointing out that last year in this state 585 persons died from burns, he stated this year so far 538 have lost their lives because of fires Other figures he gave included the total number of fires in the state last year, 23,314; three-fourths of all fires found in business and manufacturing buildings, and one-third in dwellings, average nationwide loss of lives through fire each year, 7,000; carelessness the biggest factor in the cause of fires with 90 per cent of all fires preventable; industrial fires, showing out of 512 wartime fires 101 occurred in the processing and storage of agricultural products with a total loss of $25,000,000, while 10 fires alone cost $2,000,000 each.

Guests were Walter Haberman recently discharged corporal of the 37th Division, William Luse, seaman second class, in Marion on leave, and Owen Sifritt, Marion fire chief.

Announcement was made of the Lions oarsar to be held Nov. 14 and 15 in The Marion Star auditorium.

No hearing dates were set in either case.

Radcliff is under $500 bond charged with manslaughter in the second degree involving the death of James B. Rex, 60, Luna, as the outgrowth of a motorcycle accident Kark, 37, Lemert farmer, is under $2,000 bond on a similar charge involving the death of Mrs. Violet Kathryn Koons and her granddaughter, Lynn Dianne, in an automobile collision in June The accident occurred near Lemert.

An orphan asylum founded by George Whitefield in 1740 still stands ten miles south of Savannah, Ga.

No, Auto Registrar Was Not in Auto Accident

One of Marion county's officials accidentally had his name on the police blotter yesterday through a slip of the pen.

A check today of an accident report from police yesterday revealed that during the excitement of taking names and addresses at the scene of a traffic collision, a police officer in copying the data from the driver's license, listed the name of Harry W. Haberman, registrar of motor vehicles as the driver. The driver should have been listed as C A. Thomas of 569 East Farming street.

The error was an easy one to make since the new 1946 permits have Mr Haberman's name where the name of the driver has been listed in previous years. The operator's name is now on a line below. Clerks at the license bureau said a number of applicants would start to say "that isn't mine" before they saw the change in the form.

The collision occurred Sunday afternoon at West Center and Prospect streets The other car involved was driven by J. R. Youngblood of 283 Thew avenue.

ENGINEER DIES

CLEVELAND, Oct 9—Services for George F Grunau, 56, former Cleveland city engineer and a state highway engineer the last six years, will be held tomorrow.

Cancer Clinic Report Given

101 Persons Examined Since Start of Service Here; 8 Cases Found.

Reports on the work sponsored by the Marion Society for the Control of Cancer were given at a meeting of the group Monday night at the YMCA During the eight months the clinic has been in operation 101 persons have been examined and two biopsis have been performed, the report shows Eight positive cancer cases have been found and of these three patients have undergone operations and another will be operated in the near future

The cancer detection clinic, established at the City hospital, is open each Thursday from 9 a m until 12 o'clock noon The report was given by Mrs Juanita Peebles

Inasmuch as interest is growing in the work and more and more persons are taking advantage of the opportunity for examination and consultation provided by the clinic, the society last night voted to employ Mrs Alma Gillis, a registered nurse as nurse registrar, who will be on duty the days on which the clinic is open In expanding the work the members planned follow up checking of persons examined at the clinic, it was decided As a part of the society's program of acquainting the public with the work it was recommended that P-T A groups include a meeting devoted to health in the year's schedule of meetings tying it in preferably with the observance of National Health Week

It was announced that the society has just recently received a new film titled "You are the Switchman" which is available without charge to organizations in the city and county Anyone desiring to have the film may contact Miss Ruth Turner.

Plans were made for the annual exhibit and also for a meeting in November when all communities will be asked to be represented.

UNION CO. HOSPITAL BOARD ASKS FUNDS

MARYSVILLE, Oct. 8 — The commission appointed to have charge of the construction of the Union County General Hospital in a report made today states that the $122,564 bond issue approved at the election last year is not sufficient to establish a hospital of the size deemed necessary to care for the needs of the county.

The report states that a committee has been formed to try to raise the additional funds needed.

Included in the report is the information that the commission has taken an option on the Mrs Charlotte Henderson property on the Marysville-London road, south of here as a proposed site for the hospital

The four Union countians appointed by former Governor Bricker to serve as a commission to arrange for the purchase of a site and the construction of the hospital include Sturgis Cheney of Richwood, O A. Conrad of Magnetic Springs, B O Skinner of Millcreek township and John Wulff of Irwin, who was selected chairman of the board Subsequent to the death of Mr Conrad, the county commissioners appointed Paul C Williams of Marysville to fill the vacancy on the board

SELLING HITS STOCK PRICES

Steels, Motors and Rubbers Checked as Traders Tend To Liquidate.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—Selling of steels, motors and rubbers brought an irregularly lower trend in today's stock market after three successive advances to new eight-year highs.

While scattered blue chips and specialties did rather well from the start, the direction generally turned downward before noon. Dealings tapered on the retreat. Recessions of fractions to a point or so predominated near the fourth hour.

Libby McNeill jumped a point on an initial sale of 16,000 shares. Ahead were Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, American Can, Real Silk Hosiery, Kennecott and Texas Co. on the losing end were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, Northern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Westinghouse, Goodrich, Goodyear, Pepsi-Cola and American Smelting.

Bonds were narrow and commodities mixed.

GRAIN PRICES TAKE IRREGULAR COURSE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 9—Realizing sales and investment buying caused grain futures prices to follow an up and down course in today's trading.

After a good start, all grains except corn ran into profit cashing which carried prices well below the previous close, only to have them again advance toward the finish.

Trade in oats was active and in considerable volume. Near the finish all deliveries of oats and corn advanced. May corn was as much as a cent higher on a light cash market and the likelihood last night. Freezing temperature had caused additional damage to late corn.

Rye followed wheat during the greater part of the session but active buying advanced the December contract toward the finish.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

THE impression of urgency in my father's mind went with me to the telephone, and I think it unconsciously tinged my message to Mary who answered my ring.

"Everybody here but you and Noel," I told her. "Will you please—"

"We'll make it unanimous," she said, "and pronto. In fact, Noel is already at the door, and I shall catch his coattails and toddle along as soon as I've hung up this receiver."

"Then good-bye," I told her, laughing, and was still smiling when I faced my father, and told him verbatim what Mary had said.

"That is good," he said with a purely mechanical smile, and again I had the sense of urgency.

"I'll just telephone Room Service and tell them we shan't be displeased if they get up here a minute or two earlier," I said with purposeful nonchalance, and Dicky, with a furtive, understanding glance at me, took my cue.

"Atta girl!" he commented enthusiastically. "If I don't get food pretty soon, you'll have to cart me away to a hospital and feed me intravenously—I hope I have that straight."

"Oh Richard!" I heard his mother exclaim as I took down the telephone receiver. "Are you really so hungry, Margaret should give you something between meals."

Impish Look

I did not hear his reply, for Room Service was answering, but when I hung up the receiver with the assurance that the luncheon would be served at once, I knew from the impish look upon his face, and the reluctant smile upon his mother's, that he had given some explanation so outrageous that even her anxious maternal credulity had rejected it.

"I tattled on you, old dear," he said. "I told Mother how you've cut my rations to the bone—when we can get a bone—because you're afraid my boyish figger is spreading a bit, and you refuse to have a fat man for a husband."

"You may play at your anagrams as long as you like, little boy," I told him. "They're serving the luncheon immediately," and then started for the door, as Mary's distinctive tattoo sounded upon it.

Family Reunion Begun

"Good!" my father commented and the next minute Mary and Noel were in the room, and our family reunion had begun.

The first greetings were barely exchanged however, before the waiters arrived with the luncheon.

The luncheon proceeded smoothly, with everybody except my father and Dicky's mother doing full justice to the really delicious viands.

I knew, of course, the reason for my mother-in-law's lack of appetite. She was too excited over her coming assignment to repeat the code message from Lillian to my father, and too upset over her discovery of Dicky's accident, to do justice to any meal. But Dicky, on one side of her, and Katharine, on the other, unobtrusively saw to it that she slipped part of her hot soup, drank her hot tea, and nibbled a bit at the more solid viands.

Need Not Worry

Knowing that I need not worry over her with those two looking after her, I turned my attention to my father on my right, and under cover of the lively luncheon chatter, made a murmured appeal to him.

"Please, Father," I said earnestly, "won't you try to eat and drink a little something? I'm worried about you."

Neither his face nor his manner gave any indication that he had heard me. But he began to eat with a creditable imitation of enjoyment. And under the next burst of laughter from Mary's side of the table, he gave me an answer.

"I'm doing this solely to please you," he said. "But I shall expect payment promptly after luncheon. At the first opportunity I shall tell you what I wish you to do."

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M. D.

Heart Disease

In the treatment of heart disease, rest has long been recognized as a way in which the work of the heart can be lessened. However, in certain instances, it has been noted that bed rest may put more rather than less work on the heart, particularly in those cases in which there is congestion in the lungs. In such instances, it has been found that to have the patient lie down in bed may cause shortness of breath.

Normally, when a patient is at rest, the blood pressure falls slightly, the pulse becomes slower and the general chemical activities of the body go on more slowly. However, in a patient with heart disease in whom the left side of the heart is not working properly, a greater burden may be put on the right side of the heart when the person lies down. This may lead to a collection of fluid in the lungs known as pulmonary edema.

Patients with heart disease, it has been known for some time, may be more comfortable when they are sitting up or in a semi-reclining position. If a person is suffering from an active inflammation affecting the heart valves or heart muscle, such as occurs in young persons, complete bed rest, it is thought, may stop the progress of the disease and speed up healing.

On the other hand, for old people with heart trouble, which is due to hardening of the arteries and slowing down of the circulation to the heart muscle, prolonged rest in bed may be responsible for the formation of blood clots in the arteries and veins, particularly in the legs.

According to Doctor Samuel A. Levine of Boston, the bed rest may interfere with the action of the stomach and bowel, may produce constipation, swelling of the abdomen, loss of appetite and poor nutrition. Trouble with the kidneys and bladder also may arise. Furthermore, continued rest in bed may have a bad effect on the patient's morale.

In patients with severe heart disease in which there is edema or swelling of the legs, complete bed rest should not be employed, according to Doctor Levine, until the circulation has been improved by other treatment. During this period of treatment, the patient should be urged to exercise legs and he may sit up in a chair.

Short, daily walks around the room are advisable, as well as massage of the legs. The bed in which the patient sleeps should slant downwards from the head to the foot so that the back and hips are higher than the feet.

In each case of heart disease, the physician, after carefully studying the patient, can determine from the type of heart trouble present just how much bed rest is required and how much activity may be permitted. No set formula can be given which will cover even the majority of cases.

(Dr. Bundesen will answer letters containing medical questions only through his columns.)

Solution Of Yesterday's Puzzle

Superman By Jerry Siegel and Joe Shuster

WHAT ABOUT OUR CHILDREN?
YOU PROMISED US OVER A WEEK AGO!
NOW, LADIES— BE REASONABLE. IS IT MY FAULT IF SUPERMAN IS GETTING MARRIED?
TEN SECONDS LEFT BEFORE THE WEDDING REHEARSAL BEGINS. I— HUH? WHAT'S GOING ON DOWN THERE?
WHAT'S ALL THE TROUBLE ABOUT?
HUH? AS IF YOU DON'T KNOW!

Dick Tracy By Chester Gould

BEFORE SHE DIED, MRS. MAHONEY GAVE US THE ADDRESS OF ITCHY'S APARTMENT, CHIEF. WE'RE GOING THERE NOW.
I WANT YOU BOYS TO BRING ALONG A COUPLE OF SAWED-OFF SHOT GUNS AND SOME TEAR GAS— JUST IN CASE.
OKAY, TRACY.
NOW, BOYS, AS YOU KNOW, THE WIDOW'S GONE, SO WE DON'T HAVE TO COUNT HER IN. SO IT'S JUST US THREE. SIT DOWN, BOYS.
I SAID SIT DOWN— OVER THERE— THAT'S IT! WE WANT TO DIVIDE THIS DOUGH FAIR, YOU KNOW.

Wainwright Story—Japs Strike

a headquarters as we were able to scrape together before the war began. In the last days of November, while Col. Maher endeavored to get equipment, I paid quick visits to the four divisions assigned to me.

They were the Eleventh division, then mobilizing in the Lingayen Gulf area; the Twenty-First division, mobilizing just north of Tarlac; the Seventy-First division, mobilizing at Camp O'Donnell—later a place of unspeakable horror—and the Thirty-First division, forming itself on the coastal plain west of the Zambalies mountains just north of Subic Bay. The Ninety-First division then mobilizing at Cabanatuan, was attached to my command for training and administration, but actually belonged to MacArthur's strategic reserve.

Let me give you a sample of the training status of those divisions on the eve of the attack. Nearly a year later, when Brig. Gen. Clifford Bluemel and I were sitting in rags in a Jap prison camp near Tarlac—where I had futilely planned to stage my December, 1941, maneuvers—he told me the conditions under which his Thirty-First division was formed.

IT BEGAN mobilization on September 1, a little over three months before it was thrown into tremendous action. The Thirty-First's engineer battalion was mobilized on Oct. 1. Its Second Infantry regiment was mobilized November 1; the Third Infantry regiment on November 25. Some of its artillery came into being the same day. The majority of its artillery—two battalions of 75 mm. guns—was mobilized after December 8.

Bluemel's infantrymen trained on an average of three or four weeks before being forced to fight. His engineers got no training at all. His artillery never fired a practice shot; indeed, its first shot was aimed in the general direction of the approaching enemy.

His infantry had no combat practice, no combat training, little or no rifle or machine-gun practice. There was no infantry-artillery team training.

As was the case with all other Philippine army divisions which fought under me, the Thirty-First division did not have a full complement of artillery. What guns it had—British 75 mm.'s and 2.95-inch mountain howitzers—were obsolete. There was little means of transportation for any artillery.

The Seventy-First and Ninety-First divisions were badly undermanned. They were made up of men from Leyte and Samar and came north minus an infantry regiment each None of my divisions had an anti-tank battalion None had anything like the required transportation and signal communication equipment They were all short of ammunition, but with the exception of certain vital types we received a store of this in the nick of time through the efforts of Col. (now Brig Gen.) Lewis Beebe, MacArthur's assistant chief of staff in charge of supply.

We were terribly short then, and understandably shorter later, of hand grenades, .50 caliber machine-gun and infantry mortar ammunition. We had only a few rounds of the latter type, critically needed in jungle fighting. We were poverty-stricken, too, in ammunition for the 2.95 howitzers, for these were obsolete guns and the ammunition for them no longer was being made.

VIRTUALLY WITHOUT TRANSPORTATION

We got practically no transportation for any purpose; hardly a truck, hardly a car. My command, destined to receive the forthcoming blow of perhaps a quarter of a million well-equipped Japanese troops, supported by warships and an air force in full charge of the skies, was spread over an area 75 miles from north to south and 100 miles from east to west.

But the only means of communication with the various divisions was through the public telephone lines

To top everything, the main bulk of my men were not only untrained but undisciplined, and were led by extremely inexperienced Filipino officers.

What I am saying is this. The Philippine army units with the North Luzon force were doomed before they started to fight. That they lasted as long as they did is a stirring and touching tribute to their gallantry and fortitude.

They never had a chance to win.

My more detailed inspection of the four scattered divisions of the North Luzon force was to begin on December 8, 1941. That morning I worked around my headquarters at Stotsenburg, and though we heard nothing from MacArthur or Washington the tension could be cut with a knife.

I did hear that day from MacArthur's headquarters that the troops in Hawaii had been put under a sabotage alert. MacArthur instructed me through his staff—he rarely spoke on the phone himself—to have my troops ready to move promptly to their beach defenses

But his staff officer added that there was no need actually to alert them

That same morning of December 8 I rode over to Clark Field, which is a sort of continuation of Stotsenburg. I had been riding automobile cushions for a week or so and itched to get back on my thoroughbred "Little Boy." Air Corps Colonels Eubank and "Rosie" O'Donnell had just arrived at Clark Field, leading a flight of 36 B-17's. I talked to Eubank for a time about the flight, a perilous one in those days. But I had nothing to do with the air forces. They were commanded by Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, who was responsible to MacArthur.

INSPECTS INADEQUATE STOTSENBURG FORCES

On the afternoon of December 8 I held an inspection of the Twenty-Sixth Cavalry, a Battery of the Twenty-Third Field Artillery, and one pack train, on the thousand-yard long parade ground at Stotsenburg. They were the extent of my units at the fort. I turned in about 11 o'clock that Saturday night, and I had many occasions later on to remember that I got a good night's sleep It was the last decent sleep I was to have for three years and eight months

I worked that next day, Sunday, December 7 (which, of course, was Saturday, December 6—Pearl Harbor time) and finished plans for the inspection tour which would formally begin the next day.

At 4:35 a. m. on the morning of December 8 (which was 7 35 a. m. Sunday morning in Pearl Harbor) the phone in the room next to my pitch black bedroom rang with sharp insistence. I got up and strode for it, sensing it was bad news.

"Yes?"

It was Col. Pete Irwin, MacArthur's assistant chief of staff for operations.

"Admiral Hart (whose Asiatic Fleet lay in Manila Bay) has just received a radio dispatch from Admiral Kimmel (Commander of the Pacific Fleet at Pearl Harbor) informing him that Japan has initiated hostilities," Irwin's voice said.

I started to dress with one hand With the other hand I jiggled the phone and called my aide Johnny Pajo

"Johnny!"

"Hello" yes General

"The cat has jumped.

What Is Wrong When Prayer Fails?

Thirty years ago, in Forbidden Tibet, behind the highest mountains in the world, a young Englishman named Edwin J. Dingle found the answer to this question. A great mystic opened his eyes. A great change came over him He realized the strange Power that Knowledge gives.

That Power, he says, can transform the life of any one. Questions, whatever they are, can be answered The problems of health, death, poverty and wrong, can be solved.

In his own case, he was brought back to splendid health. He acquired wealth, too, as well as world-wide professional recognition. Thirty years ago, he was sick as a man could be and live. Once his coffin was bought. Years of almost continuous tropical fevers, broken bones, near blindness, privation and danger had made a human wreck of him, physically and mentally.

He was about to be sent back to England to die, when a strange message came—"They are waiting for you in Tibet." He wants to tell the whole world what he learned there, under the guidance of the greatest mystic he ever encountered during his twenty-one years in the Far East. He wants every one to experience the greater health and the Power, which there came to him

Within ten years, he was able to retire to this country with a fortune. He had been honored by fellowships in the world's leading geographical societies, for his work as a geographer. And today, 30 years later, he is still so athletic, capable of so much work, so young in appearance, it is hard to believe he has lived so long.

As a first step in their progress toward the Power that Knowledge gives, Mr. Dingle wants to send to readers of this paper a 9,000-word treatise. He says the time has come for it to be released to the Western World, and offers to send it, free of cost or obligation, to sincere readers of this notice. For your free copy, address The Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. T-168, Los Angeles 4, Calif. Readers are urged to write promptly, as only a limited number of the free books have been printed —Adv.

White was elected to membership in the association, at the meeting of the board of trustees

Reports were given on the Harding Home and Museum and Harding Memorial and a financial report was made by C. W. Smoot of Campbell-Ross & Co., accountants

Increase of Visitors Reported

Reports showed that the grounds and building at the Memorial are in excellent condition. In the report of the Harding Home and Museum, figures showed that more visitors had registered in the last year than the preceding one, and a decided increase has been noted since the lifting of the ban on transportation facilities Immaking his report, J F Dornbaugh, who is manager of the home and museum, recalled it was the 17th to be made by him to the association. He expressed the belief that interest in the home is increasing and that more visitors will visit there as time goes on. The largest number to visit the home since 1940 registered over the Labor Day holiday, his records show.

Dr Sawyer commented that the number of visitors at the Memorial also had increased and that occasionally out-of-state cars were noted George Koch of Bryan, O., was present from out of the city.

What Endocreme can do to bless you with a younger looking face

... of the added beauty a more youthful face and throat can give! Then harken to this: Scientific research has proved that ENDOCREME can, for most women, contribute to this desirable result in a way formerly thought impossible. Many thousands are now finding that ENDOCREME actually helps to improve the skin itself, not just its transient, superficial "look." This is because ENDOCREME alone, possesses ACTIVOL. This ACTIVOL is a scientific replacement for woman's own natural skin-vitalizing substance. Assimilated by the skin, it helps to restore the normal growth of cells and tissues. It thus aids the skin to become fresher, smoother, more alluringly "alive." What bigger value can any woman young or old ask for her cosmetic dollars? The great majority get big improvement in only 30 days.

Jobs for Persons with Handicaps Sought in Drive

This is national "Employ the Physically Handicapped" week.

It has been so proclaimed by President Truman, in accordance with a resolution of congress and federal, state and city officials throughout the nation are cooperating in making the week the occasion for launching a sustained program to enlist public support for the employment of otherwise qualified but physically handicapped persons.

In Marion, Mayor Dowler today called upon residents of the city to act in accordance with the President's proclamation and to assist the deserving effort in every way possible.

Also, Fred B Scherff, manager of the U S. Employment Service office at Center and State streets, addressed letters to Marion employers and to pastors of Marion churches asking their support of the program

His letter to employers points out that "millions of physically handicapped workers performed jobs vital to the war production effort on the home front," and that the USES is enlisting the support of all employers for these persons and the thousands of men who have returned and will return from the war fronts with physical handicaps. 'We feel they have earned a just share in peace," the letter states

Ohio employers placed more than 50,000 physically handicapped persons on jobs during the war, and employers are being asked to continue their cooperation during the peacetime years, the letter explains

The letters will be followed up by personal contacts to be made by USES representatives among managers of industrial concerns

TRAILLESS TORPEDO COST JAPS HEAVILY

By The Associated Press

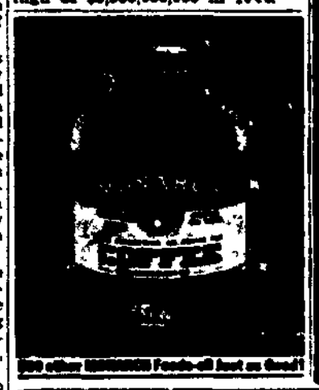
SHARON, Pa., Oct. 8—A new kind of electric torpedo which left no foamy wake sped silent death to 372 Jap vessels since its development by the Westinghouse Electric Corp a few months after Pearl Harbor, the firm disclosed today.

The project.le is credited by the Navy with 1,838,200 tons of Jap shipping—everything from battleships to merchant and naval auxiliary vessels

The torpedo became standard equipment for the Pacific submarine fleet about a year before Japan surrendered

Company officials said the room where the torpedoes were assembled was kept secret from other plant employes and that the word "torpedo" was virtually banned from conversation.

Radio production hit an all time high of $3,500,000,000 in 1944.



225 at Opening Dance of Co. M

Approximately 225 persons attended a dance given Saturday night at the armory by Co M, which marked the opening of the season. Proceeds of the dance and those to follow each week are to be used to promote training programs for members Arrangements were in charge of a committee headed by First Lt Elmer E Smith Music was furnished by Elsie's Rythm Masters orchestra with Art Knickle serving as caller for the square dances.

Lt and Mrs. Robert Grace and Lt and Mrs Byron Bugart attended Both men were members of Co M prior to entering service in the armed forces in 1940 and have recently arrived home

Forty members of the company met Saturday afternoon at 2 p m for a two-day double drill, during which time there was instruction in care and cleaning of equipment. Training Sunday included instructions in pack rolling by Second Lt. Ralph O Young and machine gun platoon drilling and chemical platoon maneuvers under the command of Lt. Young and Lt Smith

Mess in the evening was in charge of a committee headed by Sgt Floyd Sutton and Cpl Charles Murton.

For the third straight year the nation's fire losses have shown alarming increases. At the present rate the 1945 losses will exceed $425,000,000. Most of these could have been eliminated and prevented by observing a few simple rules of fire prevention.

FIRE PREVENTION is largely a matter of PUBLIC EDUCATION. Every pupil and adult should know of fire hazards and recognize these hazards in the home, at school and in industry.

- 60% of all Fires occur in homes— in the U. S. nearly 10,000 persons lose their lives in fires each year.
- Industrial Fires increase heavily! Ten fires alone cost an average of $2,000,000 each.
- Last year Farm Fires destroyed over $90,000,000 worth of buildings, homes and equipment, livestock and feed and seed.

VETERAN PLEADS GUILTY

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., Oct 9—Corp Robert E Pitts, 23, of nearby Louisville, a wounded war veteran home on convalesent leave, pleaded guilty to second-degree manslaughter yesterday in the death of Lloyd R. Wright and asked for probation Wright, a Pennsylvania watchman in Louisville, was hit by an automobile and knocked into the path of a speeding passenger train. Common Pleas Judge George N Graham continued the case and said a hearing on Pitt's plea for probation would be held later.

FORMER MARION GIRL MARRIED IN COLUMBUS

Miss June Swick, Vern E. Story Exchange Vows.

In a double ring ceremony at the Indianola Church of Christ in Columbus Thursday evening Oct. 4, Miss June E Swick and Vern E. Story were married with Rev. W. R Walker reading the service at 7 p. m.

The bride is a second Lieutenant, in the Army Nurse Corps and is the daughter of Mr and Mrs. J F Swick, formerly of Marion who now reside in Mt Gilead. She graduated from Harding High school in Marion with the class of 1936 and graduated from the Toledo State School of Nursing in September of 1944

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E Story of Columbus and is a veteran of World War II having been recently discharged after three years' service in the South Pacific

Following the ceremony the bridegroom's parents were hosts at a reception after which the bride and groom left for a motor trip through the west. They expect to make their home in Columbus where the bridegroom is associated with his father in the garage business emphasized the need for carrying on the work and pointed out that the men still stationed overseas get mighty lonely when they see others leaving for home

Rev E H Wierth pastor of the First Evangelical and Reformed church, spoke the invocation Dinner music was furnished by Miss Virginia Grover who also played the accompaniments for group singing led by Joseph L Schlosser.

Campaign Symbol Displayed

Table decorations were clever arrangements of red feathers symbol of the drive, and place cards were also held with red feathers

The red feather which is the badge of the subscriber to the Community Chest drive, has a historical background, research discloses In 1355 the Black Prince decreed that when one of his knights performed an unusual act of valor or chivalry, a red plume should be placed on his helmet Robin Hood's merry men wore red feathers in their caps for each good deed Bright feathers were always placed in the helmets of the Magyars in the belief that with these symbols of courage and valor, the warriors could not fail Many tribes of Indians marked their most fearless and mighty braves with great eagle feathers dyed vermilion In ancient China the feather robe, or "Hagoromo" was supposed to ensure immortality On St Stephen's day, Dec 26, fishermen on the Isle of Man still observe an annual religious custom of wearing a wren's feather which is believed to protect them against shipwreck in the coming year of the Pacific war, but added that he was "not prepared to discuss" whether Japan was guilty of starting the hostilities.

The first report meeting will be held Thursday night at 6 30 o'clock at the Masonic temple.

Shidehara said he believed the ends sought by Japan through war could be achieved through diplomacy.

The premier declared it was "certainly within the rights of the Allied nations to arrest, try and punish those (Japanese) who were war criminals, but it's up to the Allies"

Shidehara characterized its cabinet as "composed of liberal elements, and you can be sure there are no reactionary elements" He said it was only a question of 'a few months" before dissolution of the war and navy ministries

Shidehara branded as "rumors" previous reports Japan would send an envoy to China

Ready To Obey Orders

Shidehara said that "as a principle, my government is fully prepared to recognize freedom of thought,' which MacArthur has ordered for Japan.

"Likewise, it is very premature to anticipate any reforms in the imperial institution," he said "I believe the imperial institution should be maintained"

Asked what kind of a peace he thought was being enforced, Shidehara said probably soft in some respects and hard in others, but that is my own supposition"

In the preface of an eight-point program for the Japanese people which Shidehara submitted to the still-skeptical Japanese press, the premier said his government would "respect the fundamental principles of the people work for complete recovery of freedom of the press, assembly and political organization, and establish a democratic policy"

Blessed Are the Peacemakers

SECRETARY OF STATE BYRNES, with frankness long absent from state department explanations, has told the nation all about the nature of the nationalistic grit that suddenly has turned up in the international eye wash.

His statement on the unsuccessful conference of foreign ministers in London is, in its essence, a plain declaration that there can be no agreement on European peace terms until Soviet Russia abandons its uncompromising attitude.

Mr Byrnes as secretary of state tells his countrymen in effect that he does not believe it is expected of him and his government, or the governments of the other nations concerned in the peacemaking, to yield to the Russians on every point.

Nor does Mr. Byrnes believe it would be a proper exercise of his authority to abandon the letter and spirit of all previous United Nations documents, starting with the Atlantic Charter, merely to appease a government which seems to have forgotten that the United States did not go to war to perpetuate unilateral decisions on multilateral problems.

Furthermore, he holds that it is the purpose of peacemakers to dictate terms to defeated enemies, not to victorious allies. He says that concessions are inevitable, but the United States —insofar as the department of state under his regime is concerned—is not interested in agreement at any price. The net effect of the explanation is to make it clear that the difficulties among the foreign ministers at London were even worse than they were rumored to be and that the source of the difficulties, as far as Mr. Byrnes is concerned, was the uncompromising attitude of the Russian delegate.

This is a matter of the gravest importance. The Russian government is reported to have started its propaganda mills to discredit Secretary Byrnes and uphold Commissar Molotov. In short order, we may expect Russia's sympathizers within our own borders to build the customary fires under the state department and to start agitation for capitulation to the Russian position, as they did when Russia was demanding a second front in Europe before the United States was ready to create one. There is a made-in-Russia technique for handling these situations—not a thing of beauty exactly, but a thing of tremendous power when exerted against lily-livered politicians.

THE situation is not hopeless. It is only discouraging. At the instant there is no further hope of international accord and good will. World War III will have begun, in its prebelligerent phases. For the present, what has happened is that the United States has discovered in its first brush with postwar political realities in Europe that 27 years have not altered the rule of big-dog-eat-little-dog. Mr. Byrnes has discovered only what President Wilson discovered in another set of circumstances—that an American and his illusions are soon parted when the war slogans are set aside and the politicians begin to divide the spoils.

There is a way to have peace with honor. While it must sound fatuous to foreigners and is none too convincing for Americans as we drift into the disillusionment that comes from comparing the little meannesses of politicians with the glorious sacrifices of soldiers, United States foreign policy is made, in the last analysis, by the people—and in this country the people will support a policy of infinite patience. There can be no legitimate doubt about the goal of American postwar diplomacy.

It is to establish and to secure peace with honor. The United States fought in the war to salvage honor from the Germans and Japanese. It could have had peace with dishonor, had it been willing to make the proper deals. Great Britain and France had experimented with that kind of peace at Munich, however—and it satisfied no one.

No arrangement of treaties can be a substitute for good faith; there is no magic in formulas and organizations. The United Nations have been talking about cooperative security and international good will. They have been adopting resolutions and feeling cheerful because their spokesmen were able to meet together amicably for the consideration of policies and military plans. But now the serious business has started.

World War II is over—and World War III awaits the decisions of a handful of little men who either will show great stature or plunge the world into another blood bath. As far as Secretary of State Byrnes is concerned, nothing is going to happen to his mandate to do everything possible to make an honorable peace. President Truman has the same guarantee Only the peacemakers are blessed as the world's bomb fodder hears with sick dread that the first conference to end World War II came to grief over the unyielding insistence of one nation that the others should adopt its views—or else.

With Shirley Temple married and settled down, the older set can expect to learn any day that Baby Leroy has been called for induction.

The strange silence of Henry Wallace by no means deters his critics among the commentators, one of whom lately misquoted the silence.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Why Give Away Atomic Secret?

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 — The atomic bomb news increasingly concerns what to do with it. Mr Truman's idea of commission development struck congress as just about right, if a little late, for the domestic end. But the President tried to solve the verbose furore of scientists and selfish politicians about international disposal by saying he wanted to negotiate with foreign nations. The Socialists want it to be socialized, and the world with it. One worlders want to make one world state again because of it. The Communists, and even some Americans, including at least one of Mr. Truman's cabinet members want to give it to Russia. Everyone wants to do with it what he has already decided is best for the world anyway. The Republicans made it known through their senatorial objections they may even suspect Truman wanted to keep control of the legislation too much in the hands of Democrats.

Earlier Director Eichelberger of some group called "the American organization of the United States" wanted to pass it on to the United Nations council, which Mr. Truman rather hinted he wanted to do later through consultation with the powers.

Want To Do Something

The disputants all have one thing in common. They assume we have a secret which will soon get away from us, and they all seem to feel the situation is rather desperate—so they want to do something desperate about it. This is the premise upon which we are proposing to act, but I cannot for the life of me understand the idea. It just does not seem reasonable to do something desperately definite about a new scientific theory which is still indefinite.

The best military authorities I know—and there are none better—tell me no military establishment anywhere in the world is yet assuming the next war will be fought with atom bombs alone. All can see definite limitations on its use. Indeed the scientists who discovered it do not yet know either its limitations, possible defenses or anything except its possibilities. Why should we do something desperate about a possibility? Clearly the possibility must be remote because the Navy and Army expenditures are all proposed on the same basis for the future as now exists, and necessarily so, because they, for one, are not going to act drastically on possibilities.

The Next War

The next war may be fought alone by directed missles, which would make planes, fleets and even armies obsolete Mr. Truman is not planning a scrapping of these, but strong maintenance. Indeed, we have not yet demobilized, which seems a rather sensible precaution in view of the state of the world (Servicemen who naturally want to get home should read the international news, following in wake of the failure to get peace treaties at London.)

My point is we should not be guided politically by scientific advice. But more than this, why should we surrender our hard-won advantage merely through fear someone will get it in 3 or 5 years as Churchill says? We have a head start. Our intentions are honorable. We know what we will do with it. We do not know what others may do. But since we have conjured all these desperate possibilities, is it not just plain sense to find out scientifically what we are going to do about them before we do anything otherwise We need to know the defenses for it first. This is a truly desperate need all can plainly see. No weapon has ever been discovered for which there was no answer—an adequate answer. No scientific discovery has ever remained static. Science is a continuously expanding concept. Consider what has been done with radio since Marconi, wireless, the crystal set, now long-speaking, and just ahead television. It has been the same with all scientific discoveries, electric lights, telephones, airplanes, gunpowder.

Why?

We have a head start on it now. Why do we not pursue our advantage into the constructive phase, and solve the desperately needed constructive things about it, before we even think of letting anyone have it?

Why? Why? Why? That is what I cannot get through my head. (The last two why's refer to the current complete absorption of interest in how best to give it away fastest.)

"Equal Rights" Amendment

Do American Women Need Protection?

SUPPORTERS of the so-called equal rights amendment now before Congress say it has a better chance than at any time in the past. The proposal was endorsed in both party platforms in 1944.

The issue over the proposal, however, was stated in the Democratic platform of 1940, which declared:

"We will continue our efforts to achieve equality of opportunity for men and women without impairing the social legislation which promotes true equality by safeguarding the health, safety and economic welfare of women

The Republican platform in 1936 made a similar promise ... "to support the adoption of state laws . to protect women and children with respect to maximum hours, minimum wages, working conditions."

In a nutshell, the issue is whether protective legislation for women is needed to safeguard their health and to protect them against exploitation, or whether it is now unnecessary, makes it harder for women to get and hold jobs.

The proposed amendment reads "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex." On approval by two-thirds of each house of Congress and ratification by three-fourths of the states, the amendment would go into effect after three years. The delay would give the states time to repeal or change their laws on hours of work, minimum wages, and working conditions, and on dower rights, control of children, alimony, perhaps grounds for divorce etc. Even then the courts would probably still have to decide if such laws violated "equality of rights."

Alignment for and against the Equal Rights amendment cuts across party lines and also the usual conservative-liberal alignment. Among supporters of the proposal are: National Woman's Party, General Federation of Women's Clubs, National Federation of Business and Professional Women and National Education Association. Among opponents are AF of L, CIO, Women's Trade Union League and League of Women Voters.

Urges Blind To Pick Work They Like Best

By The United Press

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa. — Ralph Teetor, war engineering board member and prominent automotive engineer who has been blind since was five, told 200 blind veterans at Valley Forge general hospital he knows of no reason why they can not lead normal, happy lives.

"Choose the field for which you feel you are qualified. Work hard to learn as much as you can about it. When you feel you are ready, go to it," is Teetor's advice.

"Remember, you are not handicapped as long as you can think logically. You will be handicapped only if you are slovenly in your thinking," he said.

Teetor told the veterans they would have to "sell" themselves. "People will doubt your ability to do a job, but you must convince them that not only can you do that job, but also that you can do it as well as any one else," he said.

Teetor, who lost his sight following an accident in 1896, was graduated from the engineering school of the University of Pennsylvania in 1912, and immediately started his career in automotive engineering. He developed a procedure during World War I for mounting turbine rotors in destroyers that still is used today.

"On Second Thought"

By The Associated Press

BASEL, Switzerland — When Sgt. Rogers Raymond, formerly of Detroit, Mich., stepped into Switzerland from France on furlough, a welcoming committee greeted him

"You're the ten thousandth American furloughee to pass through Basel" the Swiss informed him. "Let us give you a watch."

"No, thanks," Raymond said absent-mindedly, "I've already got a watch."

For that his buddies called him aside. How to buy a Swiss watch without spending most of your $38 furlough allowance is a universal furlough problem in Switzerland.

"Well," Raymond explained, returning to the committeemen, "this watch really belongs to the Army. I'd better take it."

He took it.

STILL GOING STRONG

Incompatible Radicals

By Raymond Moley

THE bitterness between Messrs. Bevin and Molotov suggests that since Cain and Abel, the hatred of brothers is of all hatreds, the keenest. These two are ideological children of the same fructiferous Marx. One is a Communist; the other, a Socialist. But what a difference!

Bolshevist ire can be easily restrained in the presence of a capitalist. After all, if there were no capitalist, there be no revolutionary show. But to the Communist, the Socialist is a marplot, a stumbling actor whose whining voice and rubber sword turn the great third act into low comedy. The Communist has nothing but contempt for when he deems stupid measures of reform, such as nationalizing a few industries, social uplift and cooperative buying and selling. He regards a Socialist as a creature who is trying to convoy capitalism to a safe harbor.

The Socialist returns the hatred with interest. American Socialists and ex-Socialists fly into a fine frenzy when Stalin is mentioned. Men like Norman Thomas, ordinarily mild mannered, explode frenzy when Stalin is mentioned favorably. A meeting of these disillusioned ex-sympathizers suggests the warmth of a revivalist session on the ways and wiles of the devil. Ten years ago, I participated in the opening "Town Hall of the Air" debate. I was quite forgotten in the wild melee between Norman Thomas and a Communist deponent, whose name is forgotten. Apparently, they had no indignation to spare on a defender of republican institutions and free enterprise.

In 1920, the new Weimar Republic in Germany offered the U. S. S. R. a moderate Socialist, Dr. August Mueller, as ambassador. Lenin indignantly rejected him, saying he would rather have an old-fashioned career diplomat—a nonlemen, if possible.

Lloyd-George was much more inclined to admit the Soviets to the League of Nations than were the British trade unions.

General de Gaulle went to Moscow, hoping to purchase Soviet sympathy by his ideas of nationizing coal mines and railroads. Stalin regarded that as soft and feeble stuff. France has had nothing but rebuffs from Russia ever since.

Molotov Remark

The crowning indignity which Molotov offered the British Labor Party was his remark that he would rather deal with Anthony Eden than with Ernest Bevin. It didn't help matters when poor Mr. Bevin spoke of his own humole origins. The Soviet is not interested in humole origins, but in noble destinies.

American believers in republicism can enjoy this incompatibility among their critics. To a believer in free institutions, the choice between Communism and Socialism is between typhus and grindstone consumption. The one is rapid death; the other is grit in the lungs. Their common interest may be the death of free enterprise, but fortunately, their methods are vehemently incompatible.

When the Doctor Comes Marching Home

IT WILL be nice to phone a doctor's office . . . and find he is not in Europe, Asia or Af . . .

So many physicians were taken into the . . . that the chances have been at least four t . . . that when you went to one's office you . . . see a sign "Out to Global War, Return . . . imately" on the door.

The few doctors left at home were hard . . . see than a world series

The lines were almost as long, and some . . . tients arrived the night before and sat on . . . boxes all night in order to get in first . . . morning.

Patients had to wait so long for their . . . even when they got inside the house, that . . . often outgrew the original ailment and dev . . . new symptoms during the wait.

If a patient didn't have high blood pre . . . when he entered a doctor's office he had . . . the time he left.

These were tough years for hypochond . . . When they imagined they were sick they . . . had to imagine they could get a physician

It was tough on the doctors too. They . . . overworked as subway guards in a rush . . . Their one regret was that they were unable . . . feel four pulses at a time.

Many a medico was in worse shape tha . . . patients. One of the laughs of wartime . . . doctor telling a patient "You're working . . . hard. You've got to take it easy."

When you finally got out of the waiting . . . and into a doctor's office you were brushed . . . faster than a man on a revolving floor You . . . too dizzy to remember what he said. He . . . too dizzy to remember what was wrong . . . you.

It was nothing unusual to have a doctor greet you with "What is your ailment? I'll give you ten seconds."

Personally we were in a tough spot, for . . . our six doctors were in Asia. We always try to keep a second-string team, but they were away, also. The only one left looked so run down we couldn't bear to see him. But one day we dropped in.

• • •

"What's the matter with you?" he asked

"I'm a nervous wreck," we replied.

"From What?" he asked.

"From watching you try to handle your business," we replied.

Then we gave him some pills he had prescribed for us, told him he looked terrible and warned him to take it easy or he might need medical attention.

THE Crosby Brothers, Bob, Bing and Larry, aided by John Burke, a song writer, say they have perfected a defense for the atom bomb. This frightens us stiff. Can it be that from now on we have got to depend on quacks to save civilization?

A five-billion-dollar cut in income taxes is recommended by Secretary Vinson Go easy there, Fred! You can't do that to a people used to rising taxes, accustomed to new ones every season, and who have just got the swing of paying them. Countless Americans have just mastered the forms, and decoded the queries. They won't stand for you suddenly making it easier. It may mean protest parades, with indignant taxpayers bearing banners, "More Ample Warnings of Tax Reductions!"

It is good to see Capt. Bob Bartlett, grizzled veteran of the Peary expedition, back in the news. It seems he is back in Greenland with the Little Morrissey, after a voyage to Thule, 600 miles north of the Arctic Circle. During the war he has been working with an Army air force weather service. Wars may come and wars may go, but Capt. Bob goes on forever

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: My notion about everybody taking a vacation when the war was over is working out fine, though not in the way I expected. But the effect is the same, and I don't quibble about the cause.

The vacation which thousands of war workers have been getting as the result of work stoppages that have happened for one reason or another will be good for them. They will get some color back in their cheeks and will lose that so gray and strained. They will catch up on a lot of little jobs around the house that there hasn't been time to get done for the last couple of years.

Right here in this neighborhood I have been getting a chuckle out of the automobiles that have been getting simonized. Fellows who hadn't touched their cars since 1942 have been elbow-greasing them till they shine like new. For the last couple of weeks I have been keeping track of license plates from out of state and have spotted 13 states so far. It hasn't been so long since I saw them that I had forgotten what the colors were on plates that used to be as common as our own when vacationists were in circulation.

To get back to the subject, there was going to be a letdown. You know and I know that among the people who could afford to do it about it there was every intention of making things easier. That's why I thought it would be a good idea for all of us to sit and rest a couple of weeks. It would give the whole country a chance to catch its breath before we tackled the really tough job. The war job is compared to what it's going to be like to get off post-war bankruptcy.

But I didn't think we'd get the vacation by having all these strikes, though it is plain that the reason we are having he strikes is because so many people wanted the vacation at the same time. As soon as the money begins to run short they will begin to think about getting back to work, which is always the way it goes. Of course, while they are taking it easy, their spokesmen are yelling about this, that and the other, and are trying to make a big impression, and the politicians are howling and so is everybody else, but this misses the point. There is supposed to be something wrong with not buckling down to work, so we can hurry up and start making so much of everything that pretty soon the government can begin to pay a subsidy to those who will hold down production. That is nonsense. There will be plenty of time to work once we get started. And we will be getting started as soon as the vacation cash is gone.

I wonder sometimes why that Schwellenbach doesn't ask me to come to Washington to solve labor problems. Even the tough ones are easy for me.

raffic Violation Led To New olice Policy at Oak Ridge

Driver Cited for Speeding Accidentally Got on Law Enforcement Force for Short Time.

OF A SERIES
HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
...ociated Press Science Editor

...DGE, Tenn., Oct. 9— ...tomic energy town ... a new house every ... and starting a great ... ment in municipal... ... wagon supervisor was stopped and ticketed for speeding.

He proceeded, as directed, to headquarters to pay his fine. He queued up in what he thought was the proper line. Everyone queued for everything in those days. He mistakenly lined up with the traffic police who hadn't yet received their uniforms.

He looked like any other policeman to the officer at the window, who told him to proceed to station six to direct traffic. The driver thought that was a new way to punish a speeder, but he directed traffic for an hour, when a patrol car came up.

"How are you doing?" he was asked.

"OK, but my feet hurt."

"Too bad. Hop in with us for a while and we'll replace you for a spell."

He rode a bit too, but finally had to explain.

Incident Developed Plan

This mode was not adopted for speeders in Oak Ridge. But a principle was developed that promises new results in police work.

Oak Ridge being as far as possible a secret town of 75,000 inhabitants, it was always undesirable to have anyone get into court for trial, because a secret might slip.

The officers in charge of security, Col. W. Bued Parsons, in civil life a Seattle paper manufacturer and Lt. Col. J. S. Hodgson, who had to function in place of a mayor, adopted a strict policy of turning offenders of state and county laws over to state and county (Rhone and Anderson counties) authorities. The county civilian officials deputized certain auxiliary police on the project. Offenders of area regulations were reprimanded by project authorities.

The policy worked both ways. The real offenders and undesirable characters were caught, while the merely thoughtless mended their ways. Oak Ridge, which might have been expected to become a notorious type of boom town, had an outstanding low crime rate. There have been two homicides since 1943, against rates of ten or more for most comparable communities.

The Army administrators had some advantages not open to municipalities. Everyone entering Oak Ridge was screened. Every resident over the age of 12 had to wear a conspicuous identification badge.

That often made it easy to catch offenders. All police posts and cars had two-way radio. In one case, eight minutes after a tire theft, the culprits were captured and the tires too.

Law-Abiding Class

Oak Ridge citizens were all wage earners, mostly in their twenties and thirties. They were a law-abiding class.

Their dwellings ranged from 5,500 trailers to very nice bungalows perched on hills among the Oak Ridge groves, with family rents ranging from $15 a month to a top of $73. The women earned the admiration of the officers by adapting themselves to trailer life with early mud ankle deep and no servants.

Lt. Col. C. A. Nelson directed personnel selection and labor relations, along with Lt. J. J. Flaherty of the Navy. Nineteen unions cooperated with the construction companies, and labor troubles were avoided. William Green, head of the American Federation of Labor, and other labor leaders took a hand in the more difficult problem of the operating forces of the uranium plants and plutonium laboratories. There were more than 44,000 of these employes. Labor organizers voluntarily remained aloof from these workers to minimize security risks.

The Army set up a voluntary medical care insurance or prepayment plan that was designed to be feasible anywhere. Lt. Col. C. E. Rea, director of the health association, said that this plan probably offers more benefits than any other existing medical care project.

Rates are $24 a year for one person and $44 for families. This includes full hospital care for 30 days and half payment for 90 days more and covers nearly all medical and surgical care. Excepted from the benefits of this insurance are plastic surgery for the purpose of beautifying, alcoholism, drug addiction, intentional self-injury, dental care, X-rays, special nurses, physical therapy, nervous, mental and tubercular cases after diagnosis. Home calls are excepted but are made in emergencies.

284 in Last Day Rush To Register

A rush at the board of elections office to register before the deadline last night brought 284 registrations and 193 transfers, Mrs. Nora Fetter, deputy clerk, reported today. A number of servicemen were into the office to inquire about their ballots and Mrs. Fetter issued the reminder that servicemen and women are now permitted to vote while home on leave instead of waiting until election day to cast a vote.

CLEARS WAY TO USE TIFFIN INSTITUTION

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 9—A decision by Atty. Gen. Hugh S. Jenkins yesterday cleared the way for state use of the former orphans' home of the Junior Order of American Mechanics at Tiffin as an institution for insane patients.

Jenkins ruled that a city zoning ordinance would not prohibit the state from converting the home into a hospital for mental patients.

The opinion was sought by Welfare Director Frazier Reams and the Tiffin mayor after a citizens committee protested state plans for converting the home, located on the outskirts of Tiffin.

Reams and the committee had agreed to abide by the attorney general's decision in the matter.

The home has been under lease by the state for housing epileptic patients. About 30 were housed there but they were removed recently, a welfare department spokesman said.

He added that about 200 ambulatory mental patients from Toledo and Cleveland hospitals probably would be moved to Tiffin within the next three weeks and that eventually about 1,000 patients would be housed there.

Money for purchase of the home at a cost of $750,000 will become available Oct. 14.

What is Peace?

PEACE is more than the absence of war. Peace is a friendly handclasp, small talk on a front porch, friends in for dinner.

Peace is a birthday party, a Christmas tree, an Easter service in a white church. Peace is telling someone where the Smiths live, laughing at a joke, asking a neighbor what you can do when there's sickness in his house.

Peace is people helping instead of hurting one another, trusting instead of suspecting, tolerating instead of hating.

Peace is forgetfulness of creed and color. It's meeting on equal terms. It's honoring a man for what he is instead of defaming him for what he isn't.

This is peace. And until we have all this, we won't have real peace — the feeling in our hearts that all is right once more.

Right now, we can make a good start towards this goal. For, right now, in our local community campaign, we have the chance to help our neighbor. To help him regardless of who he is or how he worships. To act together in mutual trust and confidence.

And this is democracy in its finest expression. This is part of all we are fighting for. This is what you help to bring about when you contribute to the local community chest. Make your contribution today,—and make it as big as your heart!

OHIO INDUSTRY SPEEDS SHIFT

State's Industry Taking Shock of Reconversion in Its Stride.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 — Ohio is taking the shock of sudden reconversion in stride.

This is the word from the committee for economic development, set up by businessmen to help industry avoid a haymaker as a result of the quick changeover from war to peace-time production.

The Ohio picture is based on replies by local committee representatives to inquiries about jobs, prospective unemployment, and other things.

Generally the answers were optimistic, even those from the great industrial centers of Cleveland, Akron, Youngstown and Cincinnati. There will be jobs lost—there have been—but new places are being found.

Typical replies:

Akron — Termination of war contracts struck a blow at industrial Akron. But the cushion that had built up since 1942 averted a crash. Rubber swung smoothly from war to peace production. Indications point to peak male employment of 8,206. Big public works program ahead.

Canton—Industrial leaders expect early solution of reconversion problems. No serious unemployment now.

Cleveland — Displaced workers estimated from 40,000 to 50,000, but substantial number of plants are calling back workers and no further large layoffs are expected. Good planning by industry eased situation after V-J day.

Cincinnati — Peak unemployment may reach 25,000 but currently there are 10,000 unfilled jobs in area.

Columbus — Jobless number 11,000, believed to be peak. New industries eyeing area.

Dayton — Absorption of all jobless foreseen in six months.

Toledo — 13,000 estimated unemployed; all back on jobs in six months.

Youngstown — Prospects bright for reemployment of displaced workers, mostly women—many of whom didn't work before war. Employment now 37,600, drop of 6,400 from peak in May.

Cambridge — Guernsey county will absorb all returning veterans. No employment change occurred on V-J day.

Chillicothe — "Definite labor shortage still exists."

Elyria — Lorain county industrialists optimistic. Workers are needed.

Findlay — Hancock county in excellent condition; unfilled orders on hand

Marion — "We have no reconversion problems."

Middletown — No unemployment problem.

Mt. Vernon — "We anticipate no difficulty in providing employment for returning veterans."

Newark — 2,000 jobless but quick recovery expected.

Springfield—"Virtually no reconversion necessary. Expansions expected to take up any employment slack.

Steubenville — Probably not more than 400 out of jobs. Steel and other plants swing over with little trouble.

Warren — 5,000 estimated idle; 40-hour week will help.

Wilmington — All factories except one short of help.

Ex-Constipation Sufferer Praises Famous Cereal

If you suffer from constipation, read this sincere, unsolicited letter:—

"I thought I should tell you what your ALL-BRAN has done for me. I am 74 years old, and worked hard all my life. About 8 years ago I began to get constipated. I took everything I could think of, from pills to pepsin. Then I finally saw an ad about ALL-BRAN. I have been using it about 14 months and it has worked wonders for me. I can't say too much for KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN." J. V. Hoss, Blanchard, Oklahoma.

You may never have to take another laxative—if your constipation is due to lack of bulk in the diet — and you eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day, and drink plenty of water. If not completely satisfied, send empty carton to Kellogg's of Battle Creek, and get *double your money back! HUFFMAN TO TAKE SENATE OATH TODAY

By EARL BERKLE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—James W. Huffman comes to Washington today to take the place of Harold H. Burton in the senate.

Huffman, a democrat, was appointed by Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio to succeed Burton, Cleveland Republican, who resigned to become a member of the supreme court.

He was due here at 10:35 a. m., to be sworn into office shortly after noon with Republican Senator Taft escorting him to the senate dias.

Huffman, 51-year-old native of Chandlersville, O., had to quit Lausche's cabinet to take his new job. He was state director of commerce.

Offices have not yet been assigned to Huffman, but the superintendent of the senate building said quarters would be found for the new senator within a few days. Until then, he might be given temporary offices. It is unlikely that he will take over Burton's offices since several senators with seniority would like to have them.

Earl E. Hart, still on the job as Burton's secretary, planned to meet Huffman at the train and accompany him to the capitol.

Huffman and Donahey Reverse Situation

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 9.—The ceremony in the United States senate today of swearing in James W. Huffman as Ohio senator strikes a familiar note for him and his father-in-law, A. Vic Donahey, former U. S. senator.

Huffman today takes his senate office with Donahey standing by. Ten years ago the situation was reversed; Donahey was sworn in.

Before leaving here last night for Washington, Huffman declared:

"My wife and Peggy and I were present when Vic took his oath as senator Jan. 1, 1935, and now he's going to be there when I'm sworn in."

Huffman's wife, his 18-year-old daughter Peggy and son Jimmy, 9, also accompanied him.

A Democrat, he resigned yesterday as state commerce director after Gov. Lausche appointed him junior U. S. senator to fill the unexpired term of Harold H. Burton who last week became an associate justice of the U. S. supreme court.

Japs May Wonder at Care Taken To Defend Rights

By J. M. ROBERTS, Jr.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The Japanese who ordered the execution of American fliers who raided Tokyo with General Doolittle in the early days of the war probably are suffering from an incomprehensible surprise today.

Although an accused man's right to defense by counsel of his own choosing is an axiomatic part of Anglo-Saxon justice, one wonders sometimes whether such motives are completely beyond the ken of other peoples. It would be interesting to know how Tokyo newspapers handled the story of General Yamashita's arraignment in Manila, defended by an American officer who also obtained the defense services of two Japanese generals who are themselves suspected of war crimes.

Propaganda Value

If there are those in Japan who have not entirely forgotten the bushido decree of fairness toward a conquered enemy, then the incident might have tremendous propaganda value. Especially if the Japanese could be made to realize that it is not a special case for the benefit of a man whom they might expect to receive such treatment. They might be even more surprised if apprised of the skillful maneuvering of American defense counsel for Kramer of Belsen.

Similar machinery is beginning to roll at Nuernburg in infinitely difficult circumstances. There, for the first time, men are to be given a legal hearing on a charge of committing the crime of war. It is an unprecedented step, comparable to the times when men, lacking formal codes of law, first began to try offenders in the light of community conscience.

Justice Robert Jackson proposes to use what, in Anglo-Saxon court procedure, is one of the most difficult to all charges to prove — conspiracy. He proposes to do it, in a manner of speaking, under the rules of equity which have grown up principally in connection with civil infringement of one man's right by another. He is proceeding on the principle that this is just another case of establishing legal precedent through application of crystallized public opinion to an offense which is newly recognized as personal crime. Hitherto war has been treated as a national crime on the part of the nation which lost. War conducted by a dictatorship which holds even its own nation prisoner presents a new problem to be approached through new methods.

Great Care Taken

There is every evidence that the Nuernburg trials are to be conducted with the greatest of care for legal regularity. Defendants are not to be punished merely because they lost a war. They are to be punished only if the trials establish, in a manner which will stand the light of historic examination, that they are guilty of acts outlawed by international conscience as expressed in the pacts which, unviolated, would have prevented war and its accompanying atrocities.

The picture of American lawyers in uniform ably defending their erstwhile enemies, the care with which outraged feelings are separated from legal procedure; contrasts with such examples as the Laval trial, where judge and jury rise to shout down a man not as yet convicted.

Anglo-Saxon trial procedure, sufficiently advertised, may prove a potent Allied propaganda weapon.

In 1866 Alexander Buntin installed at Valleyfield, Quebec, what is claimed to have been the first wood grinder for wood pulp manufacture in America.

KRAMER DENIES ALL TORTURE CHARGES

By The Associated Press

LUENBURG, GERMANY, Oct. 9—Josef Kramer, testifying for himself and those who served under him at two Nazi concentration camps, flatly denied today he mistreated prisoners and asserted blonde Irma Grese, often called "the worst of the SS women," took her duties very seriously and "discharged them very well."

Before the British military court trying him and 54 other camp guards and officials, the Belsen and Oswiecim commandant said the statements of prosecution witnesses that he beat and kicked Russian prisoners and shot and killed two Hungarians were false.

"During all my service with concentration camps and with troops," he said, "I never shot at people, intentionally or otherwise."

Counsel for the 21-year-old Irma Grese asked him about stories that she "shot prisoners and treated them with savage cruelty."

"That is untrue," Kramer replied.

He also denied prosecution charges that she set dogs on prisoners.

TO SEARCH FOR WEAPONS

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 9—Suspicious automobiles and gang hangouts in Cleveland will be searched this week in a citywide campaign against civilians carrying concealed weapons. Detective Inspector Charles O. FACES BIGAMY CHARGE

By The Associated Press

NEWPORT, Ky., Oct. 9—John F. Seagreaves Jr., member of a prominent Cincinnati family, was indicted by a Campbell county grand jury today on a bigamy charge, upon complaint of the former Betty Lou Sohngen, a niece of Robert M. Sohngen, Ohio State liquor control director. She alleges that Seagreaves married her in Newport in August, 1944 while he still was the legal husband of the former Miss Marin Pelzer.

NAVY MAN HURT IN AUTO, TRUCK CRASH

Accident Occurs When Driver Falls Asleep.

Two Navy men, William Herman Kelly, seaman (1-c) and Emerson Hankinson, seaman (1-c) were taken to City hospital early this morning after the car in which they were riding, figured in an accident about a mile and a half south of Marion on Route 23, state highway patrolmen reported.

The car, driven by Seaman Kelly, hit a parked semi-trailer truck owned by the Big Bear Stores about 2:20 a. m. Kelly told patrolmen that both he and Hankinson had fallen asleep

New Lexington, O., is the home address of Hankinson and Kelly is from Wheeling, W. Va.

The truck, driven by Paul Korbel of Columbus, ran off the east side of the road as it was going north on Route 23 about 1:45 a. m. The lights of the truck went out, he stated, and the truck ran partially off the side of the road. After setting out torches and flares, he left to report the accident to the Marion state patrol. In his absence the second accident occurred.

Seaman Hankinson suffered chest injuries and face lacerations. Kelly, found to be uninjured, was immediately released from the hospital. The car was considerably damaged.

LAVAL

a trial is not indispensable when the criminal's own declarations, his decrees and his action condemn him," Mornet said. He recalled Laval's radio statement that "I desire a German victory." He said Laval's name had become synonymous with collaboration.

The council of ministers met with Gen. De Gaulle all morning and there were reports the trial was under discussion. Paris newspapers have been caustic in criticizing the trial, which started with the spectacles of the judge, jury and prosecutor shouting in unison at Laval, and the ousting of Laval from the court by Judge Paul Mongibeaux.

The ministers were reported in afternoon newspapers to be uneasy over reaction to the trial in France and abroad.

The first witness summoned today, Leon Noel, former secretary-general of the French foreign ministry, startled the court by declaring: "I refuse to make any statement in the absence of Pierre Laval."

Noel said he had made serious charges against Laval during the trial of Marshal Petain, but "I shall not forget what I owe Laval during part of my career and his intervention in 1942 for one of my relatives." Noel did not explain either of the allusions.

The former Vichy chief of government "is convinced he will be condemned to death tonight," said Albert Maud, chief of his defense, but is equally convinced a new trial will be held for "history," possibly even after the sentence of this one has been carried out.

Already condemned to death in his absence by a Marseille court last year, Laval appeared resigned to another conviction in absentia. In a note from his dungeon cell he asked that the defense rebuttal be skipped, and the defense, upheld by the bar association, announced this would be done.

Laval himself, asked yesterday if he would reenter court, shouted: "I'll go into the courtroom only in handcuffs and by force, and I'll turn my back to the court."

SELECT PERJURY TRIAL

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., Oct. 9—Selection of an alternate today completes a jury for the perjury trial of William E. DeWitt, 32, campaign manager of former Clark County Sheriff Niles E. Young. DeWitt is charged with presenting false testimony before a grand jury which indicted him and four others during a gambling investigation.

WON'T HALT EXECUTION

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 9—Gov. Frank J. Lausche said today that he would not halt the scheduled electrocution of Charles Stewart, 30-year-old Akron Negro. Stewart is due to die tomorrow night for the rape-slaying of Mrs. Mabel Baxendale of Akron. She was slain Oct. 14, 1944.

Yank Who Nabbed Nazis with Rocks To Receive Medal

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9—A former Warren, O., infantry lieutenant who threw rocks at German soldiers to enforce his surrender order after firing all his ammunition receives the congressional medal of honor from President Truman next Friday.

He is First Lt. Edward A. Silk, 29, now of Johnstown, Pa., whose battle valor already has won him the combat infantryman's badge, bronze star and the silver star. He commanded a weapons platoon of Company E, 398th infantry regiment, 100th division, in action near St. Parayel, France, last November 23.

Silk's platoon was pinned down by enemy fire from a farm house converted by the Germans into a strong point. Refusing to order any of his men to face the heavy fire, Silk went out alone to silence the German guns.

He dashed across 100 yards of open field to the shelter of a stone wall in front of the house and fired his carbine into doors and windows.

"Then," said the official war department description of the action, "the lieutenant vaulted the wall and ran 50 yards through a hail of bullets to the left side of the house, where he hurled a grenade through a window, silencing a machine gun and killing two gunners.

"Another machine gun barked from a nearby woodshed. The heroic officer charged through direct fire to reach the woodshed and hurled two grenades that knocked out that weapon and killed two gunners.

"His supply of grenades was exhausted but, undaunted, Silk scurried back to the side of the farmhouse where he started tossing rocks through a window, demanding the surrender of the enemy. Twelve Germans, overcome by his relentless assault and confused by his unorthodox methods, came out with their hands in the air and surrendered to the lone American."

Silk's wife and three-year-old son live in Johnstown, Pa.

CHINESE COMMUNIST LEADER ASSINATED

By The Associated Press

CHUNGKING, Oct. 9—A panel of physicians and witnesses was summoned today to an autopsy to determine the type of gun used in yesterday's puzzling assassination of Li Shao Shih, secretary-general of the Chinese Communist party's Chungking headquarters—a man who reputedly had no enemies.

Two American doctors were invited to participate, and Chungking sources pointed out such extreme attention to witnessing removal of the bullet grew from the fear of both Communists and Chungking government authorities that one side or the other might term the slaying a political crime.

Li was killed by a fusillade through the back of a Communist-owned sedan in which he was riding through the quiet Shapingpa university section of Chungking late yesterday. His death came at a time when Communists and China's central government were reported drafting a communique announcing an accord resulting from five weeks of unification conferences.

ELECTRIC CONCERNS NAMED IN U. S. SUIT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 — The justice department today announced the filing of a civil action against the General Electric Co. and the Westinghouse Electric Corp., alleging violation of the anti-trust laws in the sale of electrical equipment for export.

The action, brought in the federal district court for southern New York, also named the International General Electric Company (IGE), formed in 1919 by GE as an agent in certain foreign countries; Westinghouse Electric International Co., organized in 1919 by Westinghouse as an agent abroad; and Electrical Apparatus Export association, formed about 1931 by IGE and Westinghouse International.

The justice department announced here said the complaint alleged that since about 1931 the five defendants "have been continuously and are now engaged in" an unlawful combination to restrain trade with foreign nations in electrical equipment; and that the General Electric and Westinghouse subsidiaries have agreed to fix prices on electrical equipment sold to major American corporations and banking houses which the buyers would export.

The announcement said the plaint charged that IGE and Westinghouse International in carrying on the foreign business of General Electric and Westinghouse have:

1. Entered into a conspiracy with the principal German, British and Swiss manufacturers of electrical equipment to fix prices and allocate sales of particular types of electrical equipment for use in all countries except the U. S., European territory, Russia, Japan, Canada, Turkey, Newfoundland and the colonies of Spain and France.

2. Agreed with the foreign companies to "exercise whatever influence" they could on other companies "not to sell electrical equipment in" the territory covered by the alleged agreement.

3. Agreed with each other to fix prices and to allocate between themselves on a quota basis sales of other electrical equipment for use outside the U. S. The complaint said the quota arrangement was about 60 per cent for IGE and 40 per cent for Westinghouse International.

4. Singled out major American firms, including oil chemical companies and mining companies, and banks and financial houses, and agreed to fix prices on and to allocate between themselves sales of electrical equipment to those firms for use outside the U. S.

The complaint asked (1) that the defendants be perpetually enjoined from alleged violations of the Sherman anti-trust laws, (2) that contracts between the defendants and foreign companies be adjudged illegal and (3) that future contracts between the defendants which have "the effect of restricting exports of electrical equipment from the United States, fixing prices in export sales or allocating sales in export markets" be prohibited.

STRIKES

have forced 73,000 miners from pits in West Virginia; 37,000 in Pennsylvania; 28,500 in Kentucky; 8,000 in Tennessee; 8,000 in Ohio, and 5,000 in Indiana.

Lewis has refused to stop the shutdowns, contending that they were begun by local affiliates of the UMWA and the UMWA was not responsible. Recognition of the union was refused by the operators who said the foremen, as organied, were actually a part of mine management.

There was no indication of settlement today of the strike of an estimated 35,000 to 60,000 New York dock workers as the world's busiest port was jammed with unmoved freight. Ships were unable to find room at already crowded piers, with more than 200 tied up and scores of others waiting in the harbor to dock.

There was a tense feeling in the Hollywood movie lots after yesterday's outbreak of violence in which 78 persons were hurt when non-striking movie workers crossed AFL picket lines. The strikers were summoned back to picket line duty again today while 200 non-strikers spent the night in Warner brother's studio in Burbank, Calif.

In Detroit, a series of small work stoppages kept idle around 4,000, but there were no labor stoppages in the motor city.

More than 300 lumber and saw mills in the Pacific northwest were shut down as the 61,000 AFL workers started their third week on strike for a $1.10 hourly minimum. A union spokesman said the union would ask carpenters throughout the country to refuse to handle "hot" lumber if such action was necessary "to win our fight for decent wages."

27 Lambs Stolen At Farm South of Marion

O. L. Johnson of the Ray-Uncapher road reported yesterday to Marion county sheriff that 27 lambs, valued at $315 were stolen from his farm, located about a mile southwest of Marion, Friday night. The lambs were a year old and weighed approximately 90 pounds each. Officials believed they were loaded from the barn into a truck while members of the family were away from home.

ISSUES STATEMENT IN AP COURT CASE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Robert McLean, president of the Associated Press, has issued the following statement on the supreme court's denial yesterday of a petition for renearing on its ruling that the AP must amend its by-laws on admission of new members:

"The Associated Press has been advised by counsel that, with the denial of the petition for rehearing, all efforts in the courts in the government's anti-trust action have been exhausted.

"Prompt action will be taken to comply with the decision so that the court injunction may be lifted, since it is inconceivable that the world's greatest news service shall operate permanently under restraint which threatens government supervision of the channels of news.

"Although limitations have been placed on its right to control its own affairs, The Associated Press will continue to supply all the news—unbiased and unrammeled—with the fidelity that has characterized its course since its foundation.

"It's staff throughout the world is dedicated to this purpose. It's operations are expanding as the tide of war recedes. It will continue to merit the charges leveled against it by the government that its service is of outsanding quality and that its form of organization is assurance that the news gathered and distributed by The Associated Press shall be as nearly impartial, objective and complete as human endeavor can make it."

Nimitz in New York, Acclaimed by Millions

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz came to New York today to receive the acclaim of millions in the city's first official reception for a naval hero in nearly half a century.

He stepped from a silver-painted Navy R-5-D at La Guardia Field at 11:05 a. m. (EST), after a flight from Washington, to begin a day-long round of activities, including a triumphal 22-mile tour through jam-packed streets. It was the first full military parade in New York since the start of the war.

Eight sideboys piped the admiral off the plane, in the same fashion that an admiral is traditionally piped over the side when he visits a warship.

Big Three Unable To Break Deadlock

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 9—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin told commons today President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee and Generalissimo Stalin had been unable to break the deadlock over procedure which collapsed the recent conference of Allied foreign ministers.

Just before Bevin began his formal report on the meeting, Attlee said the government "will of course be happy" to discuss with the United States the future of atomic power.

CIO To Present Series of Network Programs

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—The American Broadcasting Co. is announcing today the sale of time to CIO for a series of four sponsored broadcasts, the first next Monday night at 10:15. "Public Issues Relating to Labor" are to be discussed.

In making the announcement, President Mark Woods said: "We believe it is in keeping with the federal communications act as interpreted by the federal communications commission to sell time to labor unions."

Philip Murray, CIO president, and guest speakers are to be heard in the series, which will be presented on alternate weeks, the last Nov. 26. All are for the night schedule.

Those followers of the World Series getting their tickets to the game via loudspeaker say that again this year they missed the experting of the ball and strike veterans, Red Barber and Bob Elson. The job was done by Bill Slater and Al Helfer better known to baseball New York, where they broadcast local games throughout the summer. They may have been somewhat handicapped as a result.

The first full size symphony orchestra organized exclusively for broadcasting was introduced by Arturo Toscanini in 1937.

Lady's Stomach Was Like a Gas Factory; Meals Turned To Gas

One lady said recently that her stomach used to be like a "gas factory!" That is, when she ate a meal it seemed to turn right into gas. She was always bloated, had awful stomach gas pains, daily headaches and constant irregular bowel action. Now, however, this lady says she is FREE OF STOMACH GAS and she says the change is due to KOR-SETS. Her meals agree with her. No gas or bloat after eating. Headaches and constipation are gone. "Our class called" states this lady. "Why don't other gas and constipation sufferers try Kor-Sets?"

KOR-SETS contain 12 Great Herbs they assure Brooks, aloes and fresh stomach, gall an sluggish liver and kidneys. Kor-Sets purify the gas that collects in your stomach as an outward sign that KOR-SETS are doing their work. Kor-Sets are only 25c at Wilhelm's Drug.

Do YOU Own A "Scratching" Dog?

Does your dog constantly scratch, dig, rub, and bite himself—often until his skin is raw and sore? He may be perfectly clean and free from fleas, but suffering from an intense itching irritation that has centered in the nerve endings of his skin. He is in torment and can't help scratching—unless you try to help him. Try giving him Nox Mustero Dog Powders, once each week, and note the quick improvement. One owner writes: "If my dog could talk I know he would say thanks for Nox Mustero Dog Powders. He was raw and sore from scratching and just lay around. Now he plays and is full of pep." Ask for Nox Mustero Dog Powders at any good drug store, pet or sport shop. Only 25c. (Economy size 50c; only $1.00).

ENGINEERS OF DISTRICT HEAR LUBRICATION TALK

Development, Rapid Use of Petroleum Products Explained.

The Marion Chapter of the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers held a dinner meeting Monday at Detrick's Inn on South Greenwood street.

E. S. Miller field lubricating representative for the Pure Oil Co., addressed the group on industrial lubrication. His talk covered the history of lubrication, lubricating products, their control and application and lubricating problems. Mr. Miller pointed out in discussing the crude oil supply of the world that we have been using up the known and proven natural sources five times faster than we have been discovering new sources At this rate we have about 15 years of oil supply in the event there are no new sources discovered. He stated that he personally felt that there are greater natural sources yet to be discovered as well as many possibilities for the creation of synthetic gasoline and lubricating oils. There are also opportunities to reclaim much of the used lubricating oils should this become necessary. This however would only be a temporary relief as about 30 per cent of the crude oil is manufactured into gasoline and other fuel oils and thus cannot be reclaimed, he said. M. Miller has been a lubricating engineer for 22 years

Guests were: H A Krighaum district manager of the Pure Oil Co., H. H. Clark, superintendent of the Erie Railroad, J S Parsons, division engineer of the Erie, Dick Henneuse of the Henneuse Engineering Co., and Jack Weis of the Marion Steam Shovel Co.

The meeting was arranged by a committee of which Jack Gickler of 217 East Walnut street is chairman. W R. James of Delaware presided. Engineers from Marion, Morrow, Delaware and Union Counties attended

Radio engineering departments have covered as much as 10 years of normal development in two wartime years.

IN the 25 years that homemakers have had to select among any of the present kitchen fuels, some 95 percent of the families living along our lines continue to choose gas as the modern fuel that serves their cooking needs best. Also more families living along our lines cook with gas today than ever before. Consider these overwhelmingly strong factors in deciding upon a New Freedom Gas [illegible] of [illegible] choice.
